

Hopkins, Stalin Discuss Battle Needs of Soviet

Roosevelt's Representative and Russian Dictator Will Hold Further Conferences
Gets Message

Personal Message Given to Hopkins for U. S. President

Moscow, July 31 (AP)—Further conferences between Premier Joseph Stalin and Harry L. Hopkins, personal representative of President Roosevelt, were expected today—the 40th of the Russian-German war—as the Soviet army was reported battling the Nazi invaders to a standstill in vital sectors of the long battlefield.

Heavy fighting raged throughout the night, a communiqué said on the path of the German drives toward Leningrad, Moscow and Kiev.

Mention however, of familiar place names which have appeared in Russian war bulletins for days—Porkhov, Novorzhev, Smolensk and Zhitomir—created the impression there had been no marked change in the fighting lines.

The Russians said they had beaten off three German attempts to bomb Leningrad by daylight yesterday and another attack on Moscow last night. They said their own air force was pounding German ground forces.

Hopkins, who flew to Moscow from London Tuesday, was almost immediately granted an interview with the most important and most inaccessible man in Russia. He said he came to see Stalin at Roosevelt's request and he expected another meeting today and perhaps several more before he leaves.

Gives Brief Report

Giving one of the few public reports of an interview with Stalin, Hopkins said in a press conference at the U. S. Embassy residence:

"We discussed problems of supply, including types and quantity of materials that can be delivered to the U. S. S. R. I cannot presently speak of the details or quantities.

"Stalin gave me a message to transmit to the President. He expressed his sincere appreciation to the President for his offer of assistance and declared he is certain the President and the American people are not mistaken in expressing their conviction that the Soviet people will play their role in crushing Hitler."

"We discussed at some length the situation here in relation to the war with Germany.

"I told them on behalf of the President our country considers Hitler an enemy and whoever fights Hitler anywhere is on the right side of this conflict.

"We intend to help them, particularly the Soviet Union, both immediately in terms of supplies which will arrive here in the near future and also over a long term, no matter how long.

"I expressed the President's great satisfaction with the fight the Soviets are putting up in their country and his admiration for that fight."

Hopkins summed up his mission as one of "getting supplies here immediately."

"I am sure the problem of payment for these supplies will not be any difficulty later," he said. "There simply must be no delay about this."

He said he would see other Soviet officials later.

The first talk was described as cordial and there was a general impression on both sides of confidence in the general war situation.

Shortly after Hopkins left the Kremlin to spend the night at the embassy residence Moscow had a three-hour alarm as planes tried to raid Moscow, but an official communiqué said they were beaten off and one raider was shot down.

At the conference were Vyacheslav Molotov, Soviet foreign commissar, and U. S. Ambassador Laurence A. Steinhardt.

(A Russian military mission of two generals is in Washington presumably conducting similar negotiations at the American end.)

The Soviet official press referred to Hopkins as President Roosevelt's "closest friend" and printed his broadcast from London Sunday in which he pledged immediate American aid to Russia.

Trapanio Refuses Consent to Return To Ulster County

Officials May Have to Send Witness to Sacramento to Identify Him as One Wanted

Salvatore Trapanio, alias John Lobua, who is being held by the Sacramento, Cal., police for Ulster county authorities who seek to bring Trapanio to Ulster county to stand trial for the murder of Joseph Ballo at Tucker's Corners on November 10, 1922, has secured the services of an attorney and has withdrawn his waiver and consent to extradition.

District Attorney N. LeVan Haver has received word from the Sacramento police that the man being held has a deformed right foot. The man wanted for the Ballo murder has a "club foot" and District Attorney Haver said there was little question as to identity of the man being held in California. However since "Lobua" has declined to be extradited to New York state to answer to the murder charge it may become necessary to send a witness to California to identify the man as the person wanted here.

Trapanio, alias Ballo, has signified his intent to fight extradition.

A copy of the indictment charging murder, second degree, has been sent to California as a means of holding the man and application will be made to Governor Lehman for extradition papers. In order to extradite a person from one state to another it is necessary to show the officials of the holding state that the person is the one wanted and in order to do this local officers will have to send to California a person able to identify the man now being held as the person wanted here and named in the indictment.

Application for extradition papers will be made to the governor within a few days, Mr. Haver said, and meanwhile the man will be detained by the Sacramento police under the certified copy of the indictment which has been forwarded them.

Maggie Claire Is Buried

Detroit, July 31 (AP)—Funeral services were held today for Maggie Claire, "Queen of the Air" in P. T. Barnum's day, who died Tuesday in a home for the aged. She was 85. She was the widow of Harry K. Her husband was a headline in a tumbling act. Although they amassed a small fortune, they lost it in a small circus of their own.

Crisis Is Reported Still Ahead

Russo-German Struggle Is Marked at Present With Unwillingness to Predict Invasion Victor

By EDWARD E. BOMAR

Washington, July 31 (AP)—Belief that the crisis of the Russo-German struggle still lies ahead was expressed today in informed government quarters on the basis of a limited and uncertain flow of official reports supplementing the formal communiqués from Berlin and Moscow.

A marked unwillingness to predict the ultimate outcome was manifest, however, in contrast with the widespread feeling at the start of the invasion more than five weeks ago that a Nazi victory was inevitable and probably would come swiftly.

One top official acknowledged that the government had as much difficulty as the reading public in trying to sift hope, prejudice and propaganda from the rival claims of the belligerents.

Nevertheless, officials with access to the most authoritative available data showed a guarded inclination to favor German chances for further smashing triumphs this summer. These victories, however, conceivably might not decide whether Hitler's soldiers would be able to beat down Red army resistance before unfavorable fall weather sets in. The officials, who declined to be quoted by name, emphasized this point.

The Germans, according to reports, have shown some of the same facility for extricating their forces from tight places as they exhibited in earlier campaigns which met with far less difficulties. One report told of an encircled unit which was reinforced so vigorously that it became the spearhead of a new salient.

The Nazi army has shown the same willingness as in France, the Balkans and Crete to sacrifice men and arms to gain objectives, it was noted.

Still awaiting clarification was the question of whether Japan had given adequate guarantees that steps were being taken to prevent a recurrence of such incidents.

In announcing that immediate representations were made to Japan, Sumner Welles, acting secretary of state, indicated the government would not accept Japanese explanations that the bombing was an accident and mistake. He pointed out that the Tutuila, and the American em-

Sexauer Declares Farmers Are Irked Since 1938 Orders

Six-State Marketing Order Brought No Harmony, He Says; Hearing Due in Brooklyn

New York, July 31 (AP)—Fred H. Sexauer, president of the Dairy-men's League Cooperative Association, said today that farmers in the New York state milkshed have "never been satisfied" with milk prices since the federal-state marketing orders covering the six-state area became effective in September, 1938.

"Fifty-five thousand organized farmers are insisting upon recognition of their economic problem, which unless speedily corrected may jeopardize the nation's defense program," he said.

N. J. Cladakis, milk marketing administrator, estimated this week that the July milk price would be $2.28 per hundredweight—the highest price paid to farmers since July, 1929, and the highest monthly milk price ever paid under the marketing orders.

Sexauer's statement preceded a hearing in Brooklyn by the federal and state departments of agriculture on a petition seeking increased farmer prices for milk. The hearing will be continued in Albany and Watertown next week.

The petition was filed by the Dairy-men's League and four other producer organizations which the league said represented 55,000 of the 60,000 dairymen affected by the New York milk marketing order.

"Prices must now be fixed to give proper and realistic recognition to costs," Sexauer said. "In view of increased commodity prices, increased cost of producing milk and higher consumer purchasing power, it is now necessary to establish sound price relationships in the interest of restoring farmer purchasing power, preservation of agricultural assets and to support the national credit structure."

Nazis Smash Seven Soviet Divisions In Drive Toward Leningrad; Russians Mobilize 3 Million for Counter-War Japanese Apologize to U. S. For Bombing of Gunboat

Thousands of Prisoners Are Taken, Germans Report; Reds Set Fire to Forests Might Burn City.

Leningrad's Burning Is Held Possible Under 'Scorched' Order

(By The Associated Press)

German troops smashing toward Leningrad, Russia's great western port, were reported today to have destroyed seven Red army divisions (about 105,000 men) on the northwest front.

A counter-offensive by more than 3,000,000 Red army soldiers on a front stretching from Leningrad to Kiev was predicted today in Soviet Russian military circles in London.

It was asserted that the attack might begin within two weeks, when the Russian high command was satisfied that the German armies had expended their reserved strength in attempts to smash the Red army around Smolensk, barring the way to Moscow.

The Soviet informants said that the predicted offensive would be one of the largest in history, with the Red army ranks strengthened by hundreds of thousands of reservists now being assembled and completely equipped for the big push.

Nazi dispatches said the Russian troops were annihilated after completion of a German encirclement movement. Thousands of prisoners were reported taken.

Earlier advices had already indicated that Soviet defenses were crumbling before Leningrad, in German columns striking from the south and Finnish troops moving down the Karelian peninsula from the north in a gigantic "squeeze" maneuver.

A Red army bulletin, reporting bitter fighting all along the 2,000-mile battlefield, gave no hint that the fall of Leningrad might be imminent.

North of the city of more than 3,000,000 population, lying on the Gulf of Finland, the Germans said Russian troops were spraying the forests and fields with naptha and then setting them afire with artillery barrages in a desperate attempt to stem the advance.

Whether the Russians would put Leningrad itself to Russian torch, in execution of Premier Stalin's "scorched earth" policy, remained to be seen.

Adolf Hitler's headquarters, commenting on the Leningrad thrust, declared tersely:

"Units fighting in Estonia threw back the opponent to the north."

On the central front, in the drive toward Moscow, the Nazi communiqué asserted that a steel trap around Red armies east of Smolensk had been "further tightened."

In the south, it was said, German troops were knifing deep into "defeated Russian armies" retreating into the Ukraine.

Simultaneously, the Germans branded as a "dismal failure" the first joint British-Russian military action of the 40-day-old conflict—an aerial assault yesterday on a Nazi-occupied port in northern Norway.

The Germans said the British lost 28 planes launched from a carrier in the Arctic Ocean.

In London, the admiralty reported that British naval aircraft violently attacked the northern port of Kirkenes, Norway, and the Finnish port of Petsamo, hitting at least four ships and inflicting "great damage on jetties and other port facilities. The British acknowledged 16 planes lost.

At 'Zone of Assembly'

With the Russo-German struggle midway in its sixth week, an official Rome announcement said Italy's expeditionary corps has now reached its "zone of assembly on the eastern front" to fight with the Germans against the Soviets.

Previous reports said 15 trainloads of Fascist troops and war supplies were moving to the front daily.

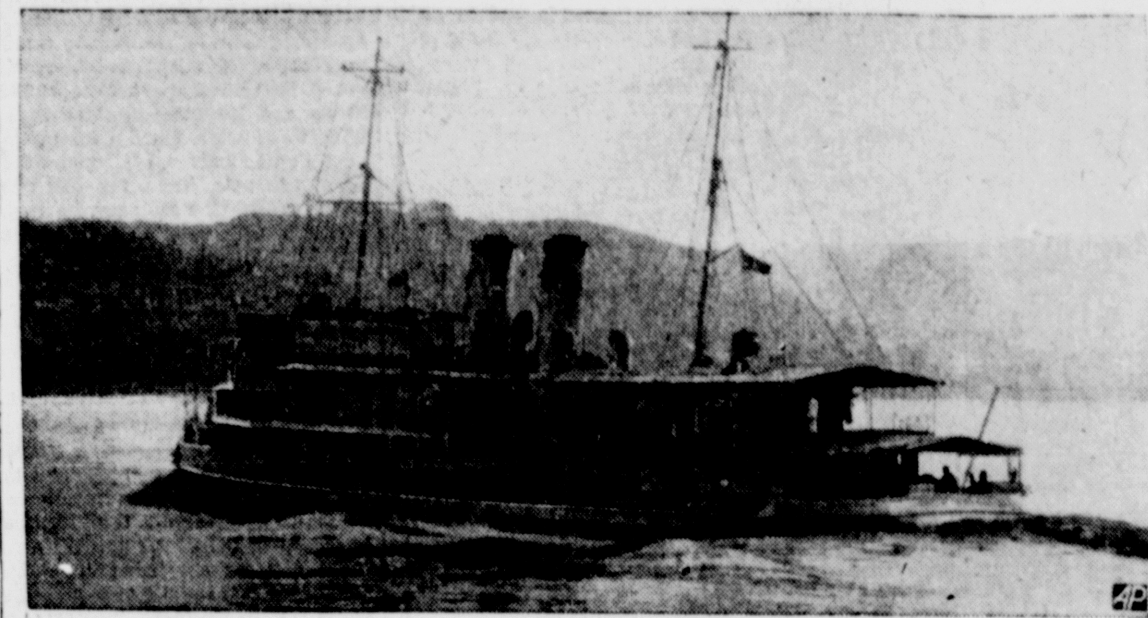

Moscow dispatches reported that the German Luftwaffe had been beaten off in three attempts to bomb Leningrad. The Red army communiqué said heavy fighting raged throughout the night in familiar sectors—Porkhov, Novorzhev, Smolensk and Zhitomir—in which there had been no marked change in the battle lines.

The Russian war, meanwhile, entered its 40th day with emphasis on the diplomatic front as Harry L. Hopkins, President Roosevelt's personal representative, was expected to continue conferences in Moscow with Premier Joseph Stalin.

Hopkins, who called on the rarely-interviewed Russian leader yesterday at Roosevelt's request, said they discussed questions of supplies at the first interview. Stalin, he said, gave him a mes-

Japanese Formally Enter Saigon Upon Guarded Highway

Trucks Loaded With Men Pass for Three Hours to Secret Stations; Ships Arrive

Saigon, French Indo-China, July 31 (AP)—The Japanese army formally entered Saigon today.

Along a French-poled route, a three-hour parade of Japanese trucks loaded with troops and equipment moved from the dock area, where the men arrived in transports yesterday, to three stations whose exact locations were kept a military secret.

The first group occupied a school and adjoining houses, the second occupied former Annamite barracks on the outskirts of Saigon, where the Japanese requisitioned all houses, and a third proceeded to an airport.

The troop route avoided the center of Saigon and the troops were confined to quarters once they reached their stations.

A Japanese destroyer docked 50 yards from the Majestic Hotel where Japanese army officers made their headquarters.

Thirty transports which arrived at Cap St. Jacques yesterday, following a destroyer-led contingent of 14 naval vessels which came into Saigon Harbor, entered the harbor before daylight.

With the army and navy thus represented, the commander of the Japanese army force in Indo-China was expected to arrive shortly with the first squadron of bombers.

(In Tokyo, a communiqué of the imperial headquarters announced that Japanese army forces had begun landing in French Indo-China by agreement. Lieut. Gen. Shojiro Iida was named commander of the army forces at Saigon.)

Polifka Warrant Charges Arson

Orange County Would Try Parolee in Burning of Bullville Barn

Peter Polifka, 49, a native of Poland, who appeared at the court house Wednesday afternoon and gave himself up after stating he was a parole violator was being held today for action of the parole officials, a warrant for his detention having been telegraphed to this city later on Wednesday.

This morning a state trooper from Orange county notified Sheriff Abram F. Molyneux that Polifka was wanted in Orange county and that a warrant was being held there for his apprehension. It was expected that the warrant would be forwarded to Ulster county for service when and if Polifka was released. The charge here is one of arson for the burning of a barn on the farm of Polifka's brother-in-law, John Kanina, near Bullville.

Polifka was questioned by Troopers Reilly and Judge Wednesday afternoon after he had surrendered himself and they ascertained the fact that Polifka was a citizen of Poland and was not an American citizen. Back in 1913 he told the officers he was convicted of burglary in Ohio and received a five year sentence. On being released he was at large but a short time when he was again arrested on the same charge and was given a life sentence but released after serving about 15 years. In Ulster county Polifka was arrested on a charge of arson at Ellenville and on his plea of guilty to attempted arson, third degree, he received a 7½ year sentence in prison.

Serving about five years of that term Polifka was paroled and returned to his home near Bullville where he worked on a farm of Kanina. Polifka told the officers (Continued on Page 21)

100,000 Gas Stations Will Observe 7 P. M. to 7 A. M. Closings, Ickes Orders

Washington, July 31 (AP)—In a move toward compulsory restriction on the use of gasoline, Secretary of Interior Ickes today called upon the oil industry to close 100,000 service stations in the eastern states from 7 p. m. to 7 a. m. seven days a week, effective August 3.

The closing would affect all gasoline retail stations on the Atlantic seaboard from Maine to Florida.

Declaring that "voluntary rationing to date has not achieved the reduction which must be accomplished if we are to avoid a more serious situation later," Ickes spoke of the possibility of more serious rationing, including issuance of ration cards.

"Unless this first action achieves results, it must be followed by other steps to accomplish our end," said the secretary, who is defense petroleum coordinator.

Applicable Areas

The recommendation for closing of service stations during night hours would be applicable "throughout the states of Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode Island, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, the peninsula of Florida, the District of Columbia, and all marketing areas in or east of the Appalachian Mountains in the states of New York, Pennsylvania, Virginia, and West Virginia, and such additional marketing areas in said states where any substantial part of the motor fuel supplied is either produced in any of said states, or shipped into such areas from any point east of such areas."

Indian Culture Is Traced 7,000 Years

Proofs of Life to 5000
B. C. Found in Cave.

TUCSON, ARIZ.—Evidence indicating the southwestern United States was inhabited by man 5,000 years before the birth of Christ has been discovered in a cave on the Papago Indian reservation by Dr. Emil Haury, University of Arizona anthropologist.

Dr. Haury said nearly 7,000 years of human history in the Southwest was disclosed in chronological strata in 12 feet of debris on the floor of the cave.

Stone age implements of the 5000 B. C. era were found in the bottom layer of rubble, he related, expressing the opinion the cave was occupied continuously from that time to 400 A. D., and since then only occasionally.

Dr. Haury and associates spent weeks excavating in the cave. The walls bear paintings in red, black and white.

In the top layer of floor dirt were found glass and metal ornaments of the modern Papago Indians who use the cave each June while harvesting fruit of the Saguaro cactus.

As the scientists worked, they found what they believed to be the first evidence of the physical appearance of the Hohokam peoples who lived in the middle centuries.

Nine "reasonably good mummies" were found in the cave. Dr. Haury described them as medium to small in stature, of slight build, small bones, Mongoloid appearance, round heads and low, sloping foreheads. With them were found cotton fabrics, human hair cords, open-work cloth, fish nets, bells, fur blankets and sandals. One mummy, he said, had a wooden plug an inch and a half long through the nose septum.

Much work remains to be done in the cave.

Psychoanalyst's Daughter Is Helping War Victims

LONDON—Thirty warshocked children, taken from homes all over London, are being restored to healthy happiness by Dr. Anna Freud, daughter of the famous psychoanalyst.

The children are being cured by psychological treatment in a large house in Hampstead, formerly a Swedish hostel. With the financial aid from the British War Relief Society of America, the house has been equipped as a psychological clinic.

The clinic is under the direction of Mrs. Dorothy Burlingham, an American, who is married to an Englishman. Mrs. Burlingham is assisted by Miss Lillian Bowes-Lyon, a cousin of the queen.

Twenty-eight of the children undergoing treatment are under four years old. Their bunk beds are so arranged that they can hear little of guns or bombs if there is an air raid in progress.

This was one of the first things arranged by Dr. Anna Freud.

Many of the children were badly shaken when they were taken into the clinic but most of them have recovered from their unnerving experiences.

Two brothers-in-law have worked 85 years between them for the railroad, to make exactly 298 years of service that the Cuttings have given to the railroads so far.

English Judge Scores Legal-Minded Landlord

KENDAL, ENGLAND—A woman, separated from her husband, took in five evacuees from the bombed areas in her bungalow near Kendal, Westmorland.

The landlord claimed possession of the bungalow on the ground that she had used it as a boarding house by taking in the evacuees.

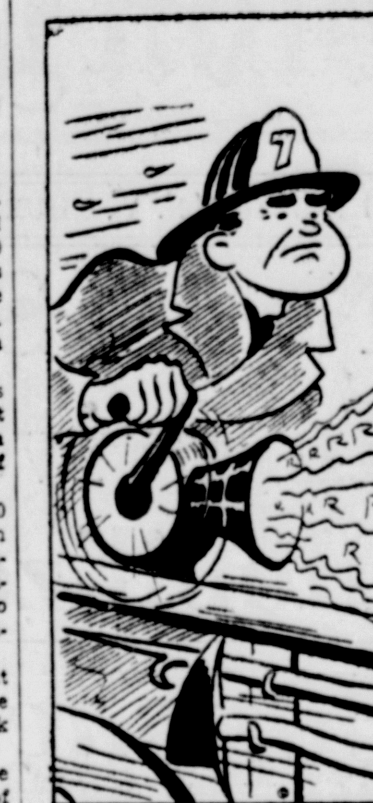

This is what the judge at the Kendal county court said:

"This woman, separated from her husband, is doing work of national importance in caring for people from bombed areas. Instead of trying to turn her out you should encourage her good work.
"I applaud her."

'Cream Puff' Diet

Less "cream puff" teaching and more "intellectual spinach" is needed in American colleges in the opinion of Dr. Paul J. Ketrick, president of Loretto Heights college at Loretto, Colo.

Speaking at the annual educational conference of the Catholic Sisters of Loretto here, he declared: "Cream puffs have entered too much into the daily college diet, and you may be sure that some students are certainly not getting the right amount of intellectual spinach."

"Learning isn't an easy business," Dr. Ketrick said. "It's complicated. You can't just ladle it out between riotous week-ends, hoping for miraculous results."

The "rigid, lockstep system" of Victorian days failed as did the "football bowl, coonskin coat and pigskin head" system of postwar days, he said. What is needed now, Dr. Ketrick declared, is "intelligent participation in a well-ordered education plan."

Three ships from South America carrying concentrated cattle feed recently eased Sweden's shortage of feedstuffs.

Traffic Graft Lifted
Mayor Pueyrredon of Buenos Aires, Argentina, is making a special investigation of charges of graft against the traffic authorities. It was charged in the City Council that only certain transportation lines were obliged to comply with regulations, while the rest were allowed to do as they liked after paying for protection. The Mayor has suspended J. A. Chaves, director of traffic, together with other high officials, and has placed J. A. Rabbuffi in charge to conduct a thorough investigation.

Welch, Ex-Giant Dies at Age of 82; Won 245 Contests

New York, July 31 (AP)—Michael Welch, who died at Nashua, N. H., last night at the age of 82, was one of the most active pitchers ever to wear the uniform of the New York National League club.

He was chosen for mound duty so frequently in his early days with the club that from the start of the 1884 season until the day he retired he had a clause in his contract restraining the management from starting him in the box more than every other day.

He started with the Poughkeepsie club in 1877 at a salary of $45 a month, and the next season he was with Auburn. The next two years he pitched for the Holyoke team. He then joined the Troy Haymakers and served with that club until 1883, when it was purchased by John B. Day and became the first New York Giant team.

From 1883 through 1892 Welch won 245 games, and in 1885 he pitched 47 contests for the New York club. Back in the eighties the playing season consisted of 84 games and during the campaigns of 1883, 1884 and 1885 Welch was credited with more than half the Giants' victories. He paired with Tim Keefe on the mound to bring New York its first national league pennant in 1888.

In 1885 he won 17 straight contests, and on another occasion he fanned the first nine men to face him in a game against Cleveland.

Junior Softball

Coming through with a late season hitting spree, "Rocky" Maxon captured the Bruins' Junior League batting crown with a clip of .523. He collected 11 hits in 21 tries. He hit for a total of 15 bases. Bill Burns and Don Everett hit the club's two round-trippers in league competition. Dick Waltman paced the doubles department with two. Maxon also led the runs batted in column with seven.

Some Local Rainfall Records for July

The city engineer's office reports that the gauge on the roof of the city hall showed a rainfall of .65 inch from seven o'clock Wednesday morning to the same hour this morning. It came as a welcome relief to gardens which have been getting pretty dry of late under the continued dry weather and hot sunny days. With Wednesday's and last night's precipitation total rainfall for the month of July, up to this morning, is 2.68 inches as compared with a total of 4.23 inches in June.

Some previous July rainfall records as kept by Engineer Wood are: 1935, 3.85 inches; 1937, 3.42 inches; 1938, 6.92 inches; 1939, .62 inches; 1940, 2.29 inches. The gauge was under repair in 1936 so no record is available for that July. Official temperature Wednesday: low of 69 degrees at 6:35 a. m.

high of 75 at 4:55 p. m.

A CAMOUFLAGE EXPERT

WHO HE IS

Frederic H. Rahr is perhaps best known as the man who invented the yellow baseball. His job is that of a "color consultant"; he plans colors and color schemes of shingles, floor coverings, and everything in between, including homes and large buildings. His clients are business firms. He was born in New England, outside of Boston. Graduated from Harvard (the fine arts department) in 1929. Studied color from Hollywood to Europe. He's married and has two children. His interests, besides color, are hunting dogs; hunting quail and pheasant; painting; golf; travel; the theatre.

"The most perfect imitation of a farmhouse on a hill is a farmhouse on a hill. The Germans used this one in their attacks on the Lowlands and France. Remember how the sides of hills opened and Nazi planes were wheeled out? Apparently the Germans burrowed under the hills and built underground hangars by a process of tunneling. There are several types of camouflage. One, the most commonly known, is the dazzle type. An example is a ship painted with many colors in geometric designs. You've seen many such ships in war photos. This camouflage breaks the form of an object, but doesn't work against a rangefinder, which sights the object from two points. A second type—the blackout type—may involve painting a ship a dark smoke color. This cuts down the amount of light reflected from the ship's surface and makes it hard to see. The thing most persons don't understand is that you never see an actual object, but only light reflected from it. A third type—imitative—makes a tank in a desert look like a boulder. A fourth type—based on distraction—sets up a fake battery to draw fire from the real one. If you want to make a gun emplacement or a factory look like a forest, better cover it with tree branches or leaves. Green paint won't do it, because green paint doesn't photograph the way leaves do. The paint doesn't contain chlorophyll, the substance in plants that absorbs all light except green. The result is that an aerial photograph will give away an object 'concealed' by green paint."

Without Painful Backache
Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day. When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

VACATIONS AIN'T WHAT They Used To Be

Even vacations are speeding up — the tempo of life's growing faster. Two years ago, even last year, it didn't really make so much difference if you missed reading the newspaper for a couple of weeks. But now, when there are things of vast importance to us as individuals happening every day, we want to read all the news, all the time. So it's a good idea to have your copy of the Kingston Daily Freeman follow you wherever you go on your vacation. Call the Circulation Department — 2200.

Sunday Mining Urged
Minister of Production Senator Schnake has asked the Congress of Chile to compel coal miners to work Sundays and reduce the number of holidays to four a year.

He said in Santiago that this would increase coal production 200,000 tons a year.

Russia's estimated coal reserves total about half those of the United States.

Solar Radiation To Be Studied by Weather Officials

Officials of the United States Weather Bureau, not satisfied with the margin of verification of weather predictions of 85 to 90 per cent shown by recent surveys are constantly seeking to employ the laws of science to further reduce the percentage of error and improve its service to the public, according to the Department of Commerce.

Among the studies and research projects carried on for this and other purposes is an exhaustive study of solar radiation, which is being made in co-operation with the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and Harvard's Blue Hill Observatory. Measuring sunlight and seeking to harness it for the benefit of man is another way to describe this study.

Irving F. Hand, in charge of the weather bureau's solar investigations at Blue Hill, states that the sun is the source of all life and weather and of most energy on the earth.

He likens solar radiation energy rays from the sun to what are known to the layman as radio waves. These rays arrive at the earth's surface in waves of various lengths and frequencies. They are much shorter in wave-length than radio waves and much longer than X-rays. They include (light) rays, invisible heat (infra-red) rays and the so-called health rays or ultra-violet rays. Like radio waves, the solar rays are grouped in bands, and various bands can be "tuned in" by means of different colored glass filters.

Of great value in forecasting weather is the knowledge of the approximate amount of precipitable water in the atmosphere. This is computed by measuring special component bands, which are "tuned in" by means of red and yellow filters. These filters cut off a certain amount of radiation, but allow a portion of the solar energy curve free from water vapor absorption to get by. The amount of precipitable water in the atmosphere can be roughly determined in this way.

It has long been the belief of many meteorologists that a knowledge of the amount of ozone in the upper air would be a valuable factor in day to day forecasting. A project is now underway to measure it. This will be done by breaking up the ultra violet rays, which are the extremely short waves of solar radiation.

Meteorologists point out that sunshine data are an essential part of the climatological record of any region. These data include a report on the quantity, intensity and kind of rays that are actually received at the earth's surface. That such information is of great value to agriculture is shown by the fact that a large sugar beet company found it impossible to operate at a profit in Michigan, but by moving its project to Idaho got out of red ink. An investigation demonstrated that the Michigan location was unadapted to the production of beets with a profitable sugar content due to the type of solar radiation received there, while in Idaho conditions were favorable. Many other crops are said to be similarly affected.

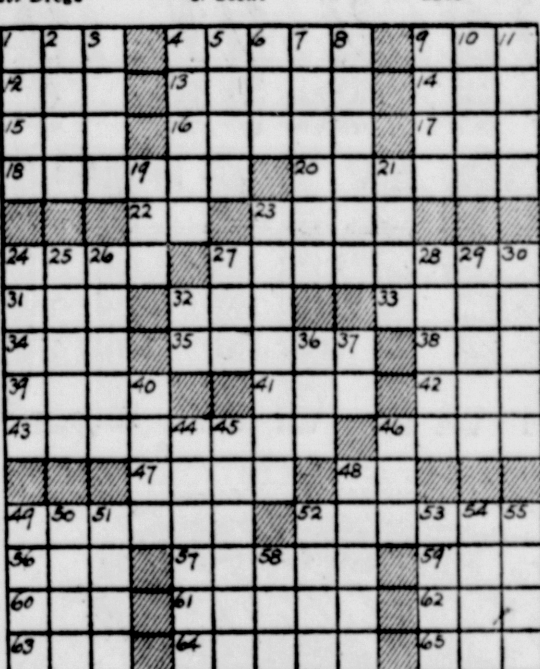

Others to whom solar radiation data are found to be invaluable include the heating and air conditioning industries, power companies, illuminating engineers and various scientific and civil engineering enterprises.

These and other instances show that one of the important functions of the Weather Bureau is the measuring of solar radiation as received at the earth's surface at various locations in the United States. These measurements are made by means of an instrument with the tongue-twisting cognomen of pyrheliometer. What this instrument measures is the amount of radiation that arrives at the surface of the earth after a considerable amount has been lost by atmospheric absorption, dust, reflection, man-made pollution such as smoke, and scattering by gaseous molecules (which, by the way, is responsible for the blueness of the sky) during the passing of solar radiation through the atmosphere.

Loss of Leningrad Would Threaten Russians Defense System

Willkie Refuses Offer to Debate On Foreign Policy

Republican Nominee of '40 Says He Would Prefer to Enjoy Vacation at Indiana Farm

Rushville, Ind., July 31 (AP)—Wendell L. Willkie, 1940 Republican nominee for president who refused an invitation to debate the government's foreign policy with Norman Thomas, perennial Socialist aspirant for the White House, said today he'd like to enjoy his Indiana vacation "without interference by engineered publicity stunts."

Mayor George M. Bonham of Willkie's home town, Elwood, yesterday telegraphed invitations to "the leaders of the two minority parties" to discuss U. S. foreign policy at an "anti-war" rally Sunday in Callaway Park, scene of Willkie's formal notification of his nomination last August.

The Keep-America-Out-of-War Congress announced in New York that Thomas had accepted the invitation.

Wants No Stunts

"I have come to Indiana on a vacation which I'd like to have without interference by engineered publicity stunts," said Willkie, who is spending a week at the home of his mother-in-law, Mrs. Cora Wilk.

"I have stated my position on the foreign policy of the United States many times.

"There are no war issues in the United States today. Everybody would like to have us stay at peace, but we will not stay at peace merely because we wish to do so.

"Our best hope of achieving peace is by helping to the limit those nations that are doing their utmost to stop Nazism, which seeks to dominate the world. No man, however, can insure peace to America."

After Willkie termed the proposed debate "ridiculous," Mayor Bonham issued a statement saying:

"Mr. Willkie has had time to go all the way to the west coast to speak on war issues, and I am sure he has the time to come to Elwood to tell the people he grew up with the same things."

Leaders in the Elwood rally indicated the debate idea might be dropped. Rep. Harness (R.-Ind.), a foe of the administration's foreign policy, has accepted an invitation to address the meeting.

MARLBOROUGH

Marlborough, July 31—Lorraine Walsh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frances Walsh of the Old road, Marlborough, returned to the Hospital for Ruptured and Crippled Children in New York city the first of this week, where she was taken out of the cast which has been in for the past 11 months, and if all goes well she is expected to walk again. Lorraine was injured when she fell when alighting from a bus at the Newburgh Free Academy, which she was attending in February 1939, and where she was a freshman. She has been bedridden for most two years and confined to the hospital for months at a time.

On Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock a group of Girl Scouts met at the home of Mrs. Albert Marks on Western avenue, and together with Scout Leader Katherine Dowd, motored to the farm of Edward C. Quimby on the Ridge road. When they arrived at the farm, Mrs. Quimby joined the party and together with the girls and their leaders hiked about two miles to a large rock overlooking the river. During the hike, the girls made a study of the various weeds, flowers, trees and fruits along the road. On their return, a large fire was going under the guidance of Joan Cosman and Joanne Scott, and hot dogs and marshmallows were roasted and soft drinks served. Others attending were Ann Meekes and Marion Greiner. On next Tuesday afternoon the girls will meet at the Marks home and go to the Meekes Shady Brook Lodge, where they will be guests of Ann Meekes and enjoy swimming for the afternoon.

Farmers Promised Normal Weather as Drouth Is Ended

Further Showers Forecast by State Official; All Crops, Except Hay, Grain Benefit

Albany, N. Y., July 31 (AP)—New York's drouth-tried farmers, thankful for this week's rains, took new heart today from a state agriculture department prediction of normal weather from now on.

Dr. Roy L. Gillette, department statistician, made the forecast yesterday, commenting that precipitation ranging from .12 of an inch about Buffalo to nearly two inches at Ithaca will help greatly to reduce a moisture deficiency regarded as serious recently in some sections. Further showers were expected today.

Gillette said the rain will benefit all crops except hay and grains, mostly harvested in drouth-reduced condition.

Meanwhile, selective service officials aided agriculturists plagued by a labor shortage by stressing local draft boards' authority to defer agricultural students as men in training for necessary work.

"A growing shortage of farm workers and the growing need for farm produce," Brigadier General Ames T. Brown, state selective service director, declared, "calls also for special consideration of all individual claims of men now engaged in agricultural pursuits."

Citing the "desperate condition" of dry pastures and inability to employ adequate labor as threats to continuation of many dairy farms, Rochester area dairymen obtained a pledge of a public hearing on a milk marketing order amendment to provide higher prices.

State Agriculture Commissioner Holton V. Noyes said the Rochester Cooperative Milk Producers bargaining agency would be granted the hearing "about the third week of August."

The petitioners seek a fluid milk price of $3.90 a hundredweight (47 quarts) when wholesale butter in New York city is priced between 47½ cents, $4.30 when it is between 47½ and 57½ cents and $4.70 when above that level.

The present scale is $3.30 with butter between 32½ and 40 cents, $3.70 when 40 to 47½ cents and $4.10 when higher.

Home of Composer Safe

Federal and state funds have saved the cottage of Juventino Rosas, the celebrated Mexican composer, who died young and destitute in Havana of Yellow fever. Torrential rains threatened to destroy the cottage where he was born in Jucention Rosas, Mexico. His home town was named after him and the cottage was given a plaque. The Home has been visited by many American tourists. One of his most widely admired compositions is the waltz "Over the Waves."

Winners were judged for their modelling ability as well as for the workmanship of garments displayed. Winners picked at Delhi will go to the state fair.

Sizing Up 'Free France' Which Is One Year Old

DeGaullists Hold Area Six Times That of France

(The Free French movement goes into its second year with what political and military analysts in London believe are improving chances of restoring France to its old prestige. This summing up of the Free French status was sent to the AP Feature Service by cable.)

By RUSSELL G. LANDSTROM (AP Feature Service)

London—A little over a year ago Gen. Charles de Gaulle proclaimed:

"The flame of French resistance must never die and will not die."

Hundreds of his countrymen had wept their fill at the collapse of France and responded eagerly to De Gaulle's summons to "all French officers and soldiers in Britain or who can come to Britain with their arms or without their arms."

Soon he had some 25,000 men ready to serve him, plus an auxiliary "Corps Feminin." Now his army numbers 40,000. Free France dug itself in solidly in Equatorial Africa and some smaller African colonies, in colonial outposts in the Pacific, in India and New Caledonia. Only a few weeks ago, it was reported, Free French supporters maneuvered a bloodless coup in Tahiti, seizing the government from Nazi sympathizers.

Free French territory covers nearly three million square miles about six times the size of France itself, and boasts several modern ports and airbases.

Free French troops campaigned with the British against the Vichyites in Syria, suffering about 1,250 casualties according to official reports.

More Than 100 Ships

The Free French navy includes more than 100 ships—battleships, destroyers, motor torpedo boats, submarines, mine layers and smaller craft. One of the submarines is said to be the largest in the world, but its very size is a disadvantage.

The air force numbers more than 1,000 flyers, many of whom fought with the British in Ethiopia and Libya.

Under the leadership of Simone Mathieu, the celebrated lawn tennis player, the Corps Feminin is patterned after British women's auxiliary organizations. It furnishes secretaries, orderlies, drivers and nurses to Free French headquarters here.

Working men replied to De Gaulle's call as well as soldiers. French skilled laborers staff an entire airplane repair plant from the director down to the youngest apprentice. Other workers are helping in demolition of tottering buildings and clearing up bombed parts of the city. Still others have been absorbed into British factories.

De Gaulle's deputy in London is Admiral Muselier, a slightly built, lively native of Provence. He possesses something of his chief's energy, if not his oratorical gift, is affable, modest and has a sense of humor.

The head of the Free French in the Middle East is General Catroux, tall, lithe son of a general and an authority on the land over which he has jurisdiction. Born in Algeria, he is a veteran of the World War.

Captured Five Times

De Gaulle himself is 50. He was wounded three times in the World War and was captured five times at Verdun, escaping each time until finally he got back to the French lines.

In 1934 he published a book, "The Army of the Future," which is said to have given the Germans many ideas on mechan-

Two Physicians Held on Charges

Woman Dies After Alleged Illegal Operation

East View, N. Y., July 31 (AP)—Two New York city physicians are held on homicide charges in county jail today following the death of a North White Plains woman from peritonitis after an illegal operation. In custody, and held for $10,000 bail set by Medical Examiner Amos O. Squire, are Dr. Nathan Schwartz, 55, of 129 East 85th street and Dr. Samuel Schwartz, 68, of 77 St. Marks Place. They were arrested by state troopers and New York city police in their offices yesterday afternoon. The victim was Mrs. Agnes Pearson, 34, of 51 Washington avenue, North White Plains. She was admitted to Grasslands Hospital in a semi-conscious condition shortly before noon Tuesday and died eight hours later. A post mortem examination by the medical examiner resulted in his finding that she succumbed to the effects of an illegal operation. Herbert Pearson, husband of the dead woman, told authorities that his wife made two visits to the offices of Dr. Nathan Schwartz, one on July 11 and a second on July 25. After each visit the woman returned to her home. Police do not believe the two men are related, but told Dr. Squire that evidence in the case indicates that Nathan Schwartz performed the illegal operations on Mrs. Pearson and that Samuel

Schwartz assisted him at least once.

Youths' Attorney Promises 'Action'

Threatens New 'Fireworks' on Charge of Rape

Mamaroneck, N. Y., July 31 (AP)—Wolfango Cribari, attorney for two youths accused of criminally assaulting a photogenic young New York model, today hinted there would be "fireworks" at the continued hearing for the pair in Mamaroneck town police court at 3 p. m. It was learned that Cribari has interviewed other acquaintances of 17-year-old Claire Beringer in the sporty younger Westchester set and the attorney is on record as saying the grand jury will never indict Robert Decker, 22, of Miami, and John March, 21, of Pelham Manor, "when all the facts in the case are known." Decker is accused by the girl of attacking her in his car off

Weaver street in a rural section of Mamaroneck early Sunday while March held a gun in the back seat. Both youths have denied the charges at a hearing in town court Monday and are in county jail in lieu of $2,500 bail each. The complaint against them was signed by the girl's mother, Mrs. Berth Beringer, 1265 Olmstead avenue, the Bronx. "Lattibentyl," a mixture of gasoline and motor alcohol, for starting engines of motor vehicles operated by gas generators, is being rationed in Sweden.

Universal Favorite—Cake and Ice Cream

By BEULAH V. GILLASPIE

Courtesy Sealtest Laboratory Kitchen

HERE'S a chocolate cake that will satisfy the most epicurean of chocolate cakers — with that subtle tang which only sour cream can bring about. Served with a combination of vanilla and chocolate ice cream, it's perfect!

SOUR CREAM RIBBON CAKE
WITH ICE CREAM

3 squares chocolate
1/4 cup sugar
1/4 cup milk
1/4 teaspoon soda
1/4 cup butter
1 1/2 cups sugar
3 eggs
2 1/2 cup milk
1/2 cup thick sour cream
3 cups cake flour
2 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon vanilla
Vanilla and chocolate ice cream

Melt the chocolate and add the 1/4 cup sugar, the 1/4 cup milk and the 1/4 teaspoon of soda. Cook over low heat for about 1 minute or until thickened, stirring constantly. Cream the butter, add the 1 1/2 cups of sugar gradually and cream thoroughly. Add the eggs one at a time and beat well. Add the 2 1/2 cup of milk to the sour cream gradually and mix well. Mix and sift the flour, baking powder, salt and the 1/2 teaspoon of soda and add to the first mixture alternately with the milk and sour cream. Add the vanilla. Pour 1/2 of the batter into a buttered 9-inch layer cake pan. Add the chocolate mixture to the remaining cake batter and pour into two buttered 9-inch layer cake pans. Bake in a moderate oven (350° F.) for 25 to 30 minutes or until done. Spread Chocolate Frosting between the layers and on the top and sides. Serve with vanilla and chocolate ice cream. Make Chocolate Frosting as follows:

4 squares chocolate
3 tablespoons butter
4 cups sifted confectioners' sugar
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla
1/2 cup thick sour cream
2 to 2 1/2 tablespoons boiling water

Melt the chocolate and butter in a double boiler. Combine the sugar, salt, vanilla and sour cream and mix until smooth. Stir in the melted chocolate and butter. Add enough boiling water to make the mixture the right consistency to spread.

Big Grain Plan Mapped

Argentina will spend $25,000,000 this year for grain elevators, it is reported in Buenos Aires. The financial part of the plan has already been approved by the Minister of Finance, and the technical details are being worked out by the Minister of Agriculture and the Director of Elevator Construction. It has been decided to build a large number of camp and terminal elevators within the next three years. Work this year will be limited to camp elevators, which will absorb the proposed appropriation of $25,000,000.

Spain is restricting the showing of foreign motion pictures.

Treasure Hunt Fatal

When Antonio Gomez found two brothers digging on his ranch near Comitán, Mexico, on the Guatemala border, for gold reputed to have been buried there 75 years ago, a quarrel followed and Gomez was hacked to pieces. His wife with a baby in her arms and a little son clinging to her skirts tried to aid her husband. The treasure hunters killed her and the children and continued their search. It was reported to the police in Mexico City that they escaped after finding three sacks of gold coin.

Leprosy Aid Grows

Help for the 40,000 lepers in the province of Shantung, China, is being expanded, it is reported in Shanghai. Plans for the extension of the work were mapped at the annual meeting of the Shantung Branch of the Chinese Mission to lepers held in Tsinan. Although several well organized clinics have been operating for years their problems have been growing greater. A feature of the meeting was a discussion of the use of diphtheria toxoid in the treatment of leprosy. Encouraging results were reported by several medical missionaries.

Cripples Make Razors

Eighteen soldiers, who each lost a leg in China, have started a razor factory in Tokyo, Japan. When their plans were announced 40 wounded men in all parts of Japan sought to join the partnership. In dedicating the factory the 18 men paid their respects by bowing in the direction of the Imperial Palace and observing a silent prayer for the spirits of their dead comrades, then pledged mutual help to each other. Three hundred public bath proprietors ordered 9,000 razors a day.

Drama to Open

'Mademoiselle' Begins Run at Woodstock Playhouse

This evening at 8:45 o'clock the curtain goes up on "Mademoiselle" at the Woodstock Playhouse, the sixth play of Robert Elwyn's most successful season in summer stock. Philippa Bevans plays the leading role in this Jacques Deval-Grace George drama which stirred Broadway in 1932. As usual, it will be offered through Sunday night.

"Mademoiselle" tells a poignant story of a mother and her daughter. The characterizations will exert the finest portrayals of Elwyn's company, which has, in its five previous productions, proven itself highly proficient.

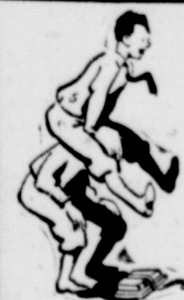

Elwyn has selected "The Wind and the Rain" for his next bill at the Playhouse and announces that the final three plays will all be tryouts of comedies which are headed for fall production on Broadway. On August 14 Frankie Thomas returns to appear in "Concert Tour" with his father, Frank Thomas, Sr. "White Pony" with Charita Bauer will be shown August 21-24 and "Off the Record" will be the final production, August 28-September 1.

MADE UP TO KILL

by Kelley Roos

YESTERDAY: The opening night of "Green Apples" is done, and it was hectic. First Carol lost her voice, and an understudy was ready to go on. Then the voice came back, and the understudy left in a huff. Then the curtain went down to great applause, and Haila entered the dressing room she shared with Carol—and found her looking haggard, beaten, ill.

Chapter Four Tangled Threads

WITH a forced brightness Carol said: "I'm all right, Haila. Just down in. I'm going straight up to the apartment and crawl in bed."

"I'd better go with you."

"No, really, Haila. All I need is some sleep and I'll be fine in the morning."

She seemed to mean it and I was anxious to go with Jeff, so I let her win without further argument. We both set to work on our faces in earnest. Through the wall that separated our room from Eve's came the hum of many voices. Outside I heard Jeff telling someone sadly: "I'm sorry, but Miss Rogers can't see anyone. She was attacked about the eyes by a swarm of bees."

Above the hubbub in her room, Eve's voice rose. It was sharp and sad at the same time. The tone one uses to reprimand a child.

"Philip, darling, haven't you had enough acting for one evening? I'm sure all these people have had their money's worth."

"You have the whole play to yourself." Ashley's voice was livid and I was glad I couldn't see his face. "It is absolutely necessary for you to steal my only scene!"

Eve laughed. "Dear Philip, I have no idea what you're talking about. Really, I haven't."

Jeff slipped into our room, a grin stretching across his face. He jerked his thumb toward the wall and sat close to it where he wouldn't miss a thing.

Ashley was saying: "You know perfectly well. You stood at that table and rattled silver, you rattled glassware! during my long scene. Why didn't you turn the table, Eve? It would have been much more effective."

"Oh, that! Eve's words had a dismissing shrug in them. "That was Tom Neilson's fault, or the little Thompson girl's. I'm supposed to arrange music during your speech, and where were they? Was I to stand there like a mummy while you droned through your lines?"

"It's customary to be quiet while another actor is speaking," Ashley said acidly. "They teach that at dramatic school."

"Philip, dear Philip, you must read the script one day. I'm not supposed to be interested, even listening while you make that endless speech of yours. Philip never reads a script, you know, just his part. There was a roar from Eve's audience while Ashley said something that ended in hell and was punctuated by a slamming door."

"It's over," Jeff said sadly. "Eve by a technical knockout."

I bunched my purse and gloves together and took Jeff by the arm. "Come on, Jeff. I've had enough of actors for one day. The moment I said I could have bitten out my tongue for I had forgotten that Carol was still there. But she hadn't heard."

"Haila," she said as we reached the door, "may I take your key? I guess I must have left mine in my blue purse."

"Of course," I fished through my pocketbook for it and tossed it to her. "Put it in the ridge over the door. Jeff and I may be late. You're sure you'll be all right?"

"Sure, I will. Go on, you two, have fun."

After the sticky warmth of backstage the night outside seemed bitter cold. A few snowflakes fluttered down and I lost myself on the pavement and the Forty-fourth Street wind whistled up stray programs and whirled them toward Broadway.

"What'll we do, Jeff?"

Waiting For Fate

HE laughed at me. There was really no question of what we would do; we had an old opening night custom. We would tramp all over town biting fingernails and chafing at bits until the reviews appeared at daybreak.

Then, if the notices were bad, Jeff's shoulder would be handy to weep on and together we could curse the critics for their illiteracy and lack of taste. If they were good there would be one more drink to toast them as gentlemen and scholars. It was fine for me, could sleep all the next day; it was Jeff who took the beating. I asked my usual next question.

"What about work tomorrow, Jeff?"

"I'm on my vacation."

"Vacation! That wasn't part of the routine. When did this happen?"

"Today at noon. 'Want to take a two weeks' vacation, Troy?' ... 'Anything to accommodate you, sir.'"

"Jeff," I said, trying my damndest to make it, "you really should get away. Why don't you go to Florida for two weeks?"

"I've never been to Florida."

"Well?"

"I don't want to break my record."

It was early and the smoke at Ralph's was still thick enough for us to find a table. Teddy Hart, whom Jeff considered America's greatest actor since W. C. Fields gave us his career to go into the movies, was at the bar, and Jeff beamed at the sight of him. Jeff ordered Scotch and soda and I went overboard with a Cuba Libre minus the rum.

"Or I might get married," Jeff said, picking up the conversation we had dropped on Eight Avenue.

"To me?"

"It's time we broke up our friendship."

"Let's."

"I've never been married. Do you know anybody in New York who's married? We could find out about it."

"My father and mother were married."

"And look what happened to them. You." He took somebody else's stray arm off the back of his chair and moved closer to me. "Look, Haila, I love you."

"I love you too, Jeff."

"If only I could save some money!"

Jeff, if the critics come through, I'll be making money for a while. Green Apples might run a year.

"No. We've been through that. I'll have to pick up some more money somehow."

"I'd marry you," I suggested modestly. "If you were only making five dollars and fifty cents a week."

It looked for a second as though I was going to get kissed, but Tommy Neilson broke things up by popping down at our table and losing a noisy time getting tight. He ordered straight rye with a beer chaser and downed both in morose silence. After grunting hello he refused to open his mouth except to fill it.

Tommy's quite a conversation-alist. I explained to Jeff.

"What is he to talk about?" Tommy challenged me.

"Conditions," Jeff said.

"People talk too damn much."

Success?

TOMMY beckoned the waiter and duplicated his order. Jeff and I tried to ignore him but the blanket was too wet. We were about to make our escape when Phoebe Thompson joined our merry group. She took one look at Tommy and wagged her head. "I see we're off to a big evening."

"Oh, I don't blame him," I sympathized. "It's been a tough show. Tommy's worn out."

"It's been a lousy show. The whole damn thing stinks."

Phoebe smiled tolerantly at him. "Nasty nasty old play. Going to be a hit."

"It stinks. I wish I'd had sense enough to stay out of it. I've been in the theater long enough to know better than to get tangled up in a Clint Bowers production. All of 'em stink."

Phoebe's bright face shadowed. "There's nothing wrong with Clint Bowers' productions. You're drunk."

"I'm not down on Clint. I'm tired. I don't like Green Apples. Never have. It was a lousy play when I first read it and it still is. Production hasn't helped it any. An ingénue who loses her voice on opening night. An understudy who walks out. The Eve North-Philip Ashley feud. It's a mess. The whole thing's a mess. Even the scenery's painted badly."

Jeff blinked. "I find myself becoming fascinated. Who lost whose voice? Who walked out? Who is feuding with who?"

I told him then, starting with the case of the missing understudy. Tommy went painstakingly on with his drinking career while I talked. Once he came out of it to mutter, "Yeah, tell him about Carol, the little..."

"I missed the noun but I didn't ask for it again. Jeff took a long drag on his cigarette and stood up. "I'm beginning to be frightened by actors. Let's get out of here."

It was only twelve-thirty. We had long hours to kill before the first morning editions appeared on the street. Jeff suggested the inevitable, a movie. On Forty-second Street we managed to find a double feature that only one of us had seen half of.

Jeff awakened me by removing his shoulder from under my head. "Is this where we came in?"

I asked.

"I can't remember back that far. Let's get out of here and see what day it is."

Times Square had settled down for its short nap before the sun rose. We walked down Seventh Avenue to the Metropolitan and read all the three sheets. We managed to put all of fifteen minutes more behind us by wandering down to Pennsylvania Station. Finally, Jeff decided we should take a ride and he pushed me into a taxi.

When the meter hit the two dollar mark we got out. We were on Broadway and a hundred and something so we took a subway back to Times Square. The papers were out when we climbed the stairs into the Times Square. We bought them all and lugged them to a restaurant.

On the whole they were enthusiastic. There were nice things about Greely Morris' dialogue and about Clint Bowers' direction. Steve and Ashley and old Ben Kerry were favorably mentioned. I had a few sweet remarks passed about me here and there. But the orchids went to Carol. She was hailed as a discovery, her notices alone would insure the play a run.

Green Apples was a hit and we had all scored personal successes. All that is, except Eve North.

Poor Eve. "Despite a faltering performance by Miss North," was the way the Times ran, and one of the tabloids reported: "The old gray mare ain't what she used to be which is young, but she won't admit it." The Herald Tribune was cruel in its kindness. Its only mention of Eve was a flattering description of her second act gown.

NAVY'S NEW NET TENDER GETS TEST—The U.S.S. Locust (above), given tests in Lake Erie, is first of a dozen 158-foot anti-submarine net tenders to be ready for Uncle Sam under a $6,500,000 contract with Cleveland and Lorain, Ohio, shipyards.

DEFENSE MERIT BADGE—To industrial plants that are abreast or ahead of production schedules on defense orders will be awarded this naval ordnance flag, announced in Washington by Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox (left). By L. L. STEVENSON

Almost 22 years have passed since Jack Dempsey won the world's heavyweight boxing title. Nevertheless Jack, who is 46 years old, is still an athlete. He weighs 250 pounds and is as hard as nails. He boxes regularly and still likes to crawl through the ropes and face a ring opponent though naturally his wind and legs are not what they were on that terrifically hot Fourth of July, back in 1919, when he flattened Jess Willard at Toledo. He does a great deal of traveling as a referee of boxing bouts all over the country. When in town, if he can get away from his restaurant business or other chores, he plays golf. Also he frequently takes walks in Central park. In the park, his companions are two pretty girls. They are his chief interest in life. One is five years old, the other seven. They are his daughters.

During the coming fiscal year it will cost $1,827,475 a day, including Sundays and holidays, to run the city of New York. That's at the rate of about $76,145 an hour or $1,269 a minute. In light of war time defense spending that total does not seem huge.

Yet it represents an outlay of more than $90 for each man, woman and child living in the five boroughs. The money necessary to pay salaries and provide the various services supplied by the city of course comes from taxation. Real estate owners pay the bulk of the cost. During the year they will pay $73,740,594, much of which will be collected from rent payers by landlords. The rest of the budget money will come from the state and other sources.

Young women of the last century didn't flock to cocktail bars and night clubs for the simple reason that to visit a bar meant loss of reputation and there were no night clubs. So they spent a lot of their time making fancy cushions which were used as gifts at weddings, birthdays and christenings. I acquired that information through visiting an exhibit of handiwork of fair ladies of the past at the Museum of the City of New York. The cushions are ornamented with silk, chenille, pearl beads and steel pin heads and thus are strictly ornamental. The oldest was made in 1825 and was presented as a christening gift. In the center of the design are the words, "Welcome, sweet babe."

Most elaborate gate I've seen in New York—incidentally the most beautiful—is the bronze portal at the motor entrance to the Bronx park zoological gardens. It was executed by WPA workers. I'm told, and is certainly a fine example of what can be done. Fellow you'd least expect to be a baby talker is husky Tommy Riggs, former Ohio State quarterback. Riggs is known from coast to coast today not as one of the gridiron greats, but as the creator of Betty Lou, a five-year-old tyke. Speaking of football, this summer Ted Collins, radio tycoon, will have some important conferences with big, burly fellows at his Lake Placid retreat. He is now the proprietor of a pro football team, the Long Island Indians.

Going uptown on a bus top the other afternoon, two young women were discussing a friend who had been spending her vacation in Bermuda. "And she flew back," remarked one of the girls. "All the way?" inquired the other. And that reminded me of an absent-minded friend, who when a friend informed him he had been down to Bermuda, asked innocently enough, "Did you drive?" That must have been more than 10 years ago but he hasn't been allowed to forget about it yet.

Dorothy Jaffe, who runs a large matrimonial bureau, is proud of the fact that in the last five years she has played Cupid to 10,000 couples. What she is most proud of, however, is that she married one of her own clients. It happened in 1936 when she first founded her "marriage consultant" service. One of her early patrons was a dignified lawyer who was looking for a wife. He didn't look farther than Miss Jaffe. Four weeks later they were married, and they've been living together happily ever since.

Latest Tanks Offer Cushioned Interiors

CHICAGO.—No longer will the army tank take seven soldiers, mix, stir and shake well. The men will sit on cushions much like the modern bar stool and wear latex-cushioned crash helmets to further prevent face injuries and body bumps, the 18-foot tanks will be lined with air-cell latex sponge.

There will be no mid-week church service at the Clinton Avenue Church this evening. It was announced this morning.

Anyone wishing a taxicab in Italy after 10 o'clock at night, must telephone the police station.

Held on Charge
Malvin Winne, 18, of High Woods was arrested Thursday by State Troopers Arthur Reilly and Michael Judge of the B. C. T. on a charge of incest. He was held for grand jury action by Justice Percy Bush of the town of Ulster. Winne was arrested several months ago along with Elmer and Floyd Pelen of this city following entrance to several summer places in the Woodstock area. Winne was given a suspended sentence in the county jail and placed on probation for a year by County Judge J. Edward Conway.

Could Singapore Hold Out As Far Eastern 'Gibraltar'?

AP Feature Service
The British naval base of Singapore has been called the Gibraltar of the Far East. But except for size and strategic importance, it is literally half a world apart from the Mediterranean stronghold.

Only 27 miles long and 14 miles wide, the island at the southern tip of the Malay peninsula controls navigation in the Malacca straits between the Indian and Pacific oceans. It is hot, humid, swampy—everything that Gibraltar is not.

With Singapore, the British are able to service a full fleet of warships, defend India, Burma and the Straits Settlements, and maintain a Royal Air Force squadron of growing dimensions. Without it, they would be both literally and figuratively at sea.

Acquired by Purchase
British control of Singapore dates from Feb. 6, 1819, when the island was purchased from the rulers of Johore. The capital of Singapore was founded the same year.

Trade rivalry with the Dutch
Singapore when the British took over. A great influx of Chinese, Malays and Asiatics followed, and the city is one of the world's most cosmopolitan. Its population in 1931 was 445,719, more than double the 1921 figure.

A causeway links the island directly to Johore, and geologists believe that it once was joined to the Malay peninsula.

The German commerce raider Emden attacked Penang during World War I, and in 1921 the British Imperial conference, in the face of opposition from disarmament advocates, proposed to spend about $30,000,000 to improve the naval base at Singapore. It meant the start of present fortifications and improvements.

Naval Base Enlarged
Singapore's facilities include a dry dock and a large floating dock which was towed from England. Both accommodate the largest warships. Expansion to meet any needs was announced this July. The British Navy's China station recently was moved to Singapore from Hong Kong, to be added to the East Indies station.

Land defenses were reinforced last December. Troops now include Seaforth Highlanders, Indian troops, Malayan forces, and Australians—as many as 90,000 five months ago.

The British Press Service reported recently that "formidable fixed defenses are being or have been built, including heavy concentrations of anti-aircraft."

In recent months the Far Eastern Command of the R.A.F. has been heavily strengthened. The British Press Service said also that "large numbers of Lockheed-Hudson bombers have been delivered from the United States," and Washington revealed that 200 late model Brewster fighter planes had been shipped.

An Air-Man in Command
Commander-in-Chief for the British in the Far East is Air Chief Marshal Sir Robert Brooke-Popham, whose appointment last fall was evidence of the air arm's importance. Commenting on Japanese expansion, July 16, he said that "we are fully prepared . . . confident that whatever the British forces in the Far East may be called upon to perform we will not be found wanting."

The Singapore base, the British Press Service has said frankly, "was designed to guard against a war in which Japan would be hostile." Early this year the British announced that waters off Singapore had been mined.

Has Huge Tin Smelter
Natural advantages further helped the island to prosperity. The soil is poor, but the climate is hot and humid with little seasonal change, and the land is diversified by low hills. The British cleared the jungle and planted rubber. On the adjacent small island of Pulau Brani is a tin smelter which for many years provided more than half the world's output. Singapore also has a pineapple cannery, rubber factory, biscuit factory, shoe factory and cannery.

Although it presumably was a trade center as far back as the 12th century, only fisherfolk inhabited Singapore when the British took over. A great influx of Chinese, Malays and Asiatics followed, and the city is one of the world's most cosmopolitan. Its population in 1931 was 445,719, more than double the 1921 figure.

Although it presumably was a trade center as far back as the 12th century, only fisherfolk inhinged on control of the Malacca straits and the narrow passage between the large island of Sumatra, west of Singapore, and the island of Java. After long diplomatic sparring, the English left Sumatra to the Dutch and the Dutch relinquished Malacca on the Malay peninsula. Thus neither could exclude the other from passage between the India and China seas.

Singapore's first great importance was a hub for trade. A free port from the start, it drew commerce from Borneo, the Moluccas, the Philippines and Siam (now Thailand). Eventually it became the most important port of call on the Far East trade route, with a good harbor, docks and coaling wharves.

Charts A Guide for Figure
Art directors are looking for good fashion artists—how about you?

With the help of charts showing you the professional way to draw pretty faces and figures, you might teach yourself to make a good—and glamorous—living. For fashion figures may be drawn in simple steps. You start with an oval for the face, a straight line for the body. Then you block in parallel horizontal lines for shoulders, bust, waist and hips. However the body tilts or poses the lines for bust and shoulder tilt the same way, as our diagram shows. Likewise the lines for waist and hips tilt in the same direction.

Now, with the aid of a chart showing the proportions of the fashion figure, block in and smooth the contours.

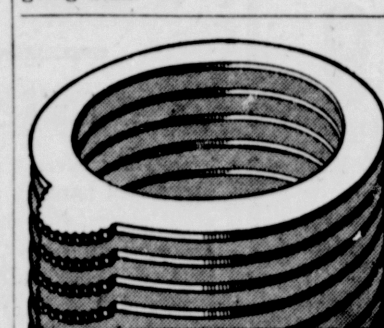

On this graceful, well-proportioned figure it's easy to draw a garment that "fits."

You'll be delighted with the progress you'll make—aided by the charts in our 24-page instruction book. Explains line and wash techniques; how to draw various textures, furs, accessories.

Final Plans Made For Doll House

Final plans were made at yesterday's meeting of the Bundles for Britain Committee for the exhibition of Colleen Moore's Doll House, August 6 through 13. All of the sub-committees reported progress and especially the publicity committee who have obtained Mrs. Matthew Hasbrouck and her commercial pilot, Henry Alversmier, to "bomb" the towns in the district with leaflets this Saturday morning.

The plane will leave the Kingston Airport, Saturday at 10 a. m. pass over Saugerties at 10:15; Woodstock at 10:30; Rosendale at 10:45; New Paltz at 10:55 and Highland at 11:05. The leaflets which they will drop give a brief description of the doll house including a picture of the King Arthur Dining Room.

Mrs. E. V. Wilborn, who presided at the meeting, read letters from Mrs. Sara Delano Roosevelt, the President and Mrs. Roosevelt, and Governor and Mrs. Herbert Lehman, regretting that they will not be able to attend previous party night August 5. However, Mrs. James R. Roosevelt, sister-in-law of President Roosevelt is planning to be present. Tickets are still on sale for this party and may be bought at the door.

Miss Mary Jane Burns, publicity representative of the Doll House was introduced and gave a brief description of the miniature castle. It is transported in 22 boxes by a private car of the Railway Express Co. It has traveled 700,000 miles and has been seen by over 9,000,000 people to date. It takes 8 hours to assemble and the rooms are made with three walls of materials and one of glass so that a view of each is easily seen.

The Doll House will be shown during the regular store hours and on Sunday, August 10, from 12 noon to 9:30 p. m. It will be on the first floor of the Standard Furniture Co. and children's tickets range up to 12 years of age.

Vacation Vox Pop

Another trip to Detroit was taken this summer by Mr. and Mrs. John Bode of 32 Hoffman street and their granddaughter, Lorraine Bode of 41 Hanratty street. Lorraine kept an account of the trip and from her notes this review was written.

The Bodes left on train rather than by car. They traveled from Saturday morning, July 12, to the same evening when they reached Detroit. The train only stopped at Albany and Buffalo in New York state, then crossed into Canada and back through a tunnel under the Detroit river to the city. From the train could be seen the Barge Canal and in Canada a great many grain and corn farms.

Sunday, the family attended the Shrine of the Little Flower Church at Royal Oak, Mich. This is the home church of the Radio Priest, Father Coughlin. It is comparatively new and is most modern in design, being in the form of an octagon with the altar in the center of the auditorium. A balcony is built completely around the circle. Even the doors are octagonal in shape. There are stores from every state of the union in the church and it contains the largest crucifix in the world.

The altar is pure white marble and weighs 18 tons. The skylight above was made in Germany and the light rays through it make the white altar appear to be blue. The organ is in one of the balconies and the music is reproduced through a speaker system in each of the pews similar to the arrangement used in the chairs at the General Motors Building, World of Tomorrow, at the World's Fair.

In the afternoon the party went 75 miles away to Jackson, Mich., where is located Cascades Park. The cascades consist of 125 steps over which the water falls. It is a man-made falls and at night colored lights play up and down the fountains and falls.

The following day they visited the Ford River Rouge plant and Greenfield Village, Dearborn, Mich. At the plant they saw the Rotunda, which was taken from the Ford building at the World's Fair. This depicts the various products used in the making of a car, and how they are produced. At 4 o'clock the shift of 85,000 men was made.

Greenfield Village is a museum park with buildings from all over the world, most of them curios which Mr. Ford chose to have brought to this country. There is a herder's hut and old jewelry store from England. A museum of antiques, old cars, old-fashioned clothing and a blacksmith's shop may also be seen. Of interest to local visitors was the bell of the Mary Powell, Hudson river steamer. Old fashioned stage coaches drawn by horses with footmen drive the visitors to various parts of the village. There are facilities for picnic parties.

Visits were made to the Royal Oak Zoological Gardens and to the large stores and theatre. Some of the shopping was done in the Jail Hudson Department Store where Lorraine had her first experience with escalators and cafeteria style meals. Later in the week the shoppers went to the Southfield section of Detroit and also visited Middle Rouge Park. It is 11 miles around this park which includes lakes and picnic grounds.

Another day was spent at a hamburger roast picnic on Belle Isle, which is between the Detroit and St. Clair rivers. Lorraine liked the animals at the zoo, particularly Sheba, the elephant. At night a 100-piece symphony orchestra gave a concert and the fountains were colored with lights. The scene reminded one of the evening lagoon program at the World's Fair.

Sunday, July 20, the family attended services at Christ The King Church. They left for home that same evening at 8 o'clock and arrived in Kingston Monday evening. Mr. Bode liked the numerous parks and gardens through which one could walk in the city of Detroit.

Camping Period Closes

For Girl Reserves The end of July brought to a close the Girl Reserve camping period at the Y.W.C.A. camp near High Woods. Beginning June 20 and continuing for five weeks, the junior members of the local Y.W.C.A. were given exclusive use of the new camp, and during that period 84 different members were overnight guests at the camp.

some for only one or two nights, and others for as long as three weeks.

During the weeks of organized camp, the program included swimming, hiking, camp handicraft, group singing, dramatics, hobby hours, vesper programs, and evening campfires, but the enumeration of these activities does not completely tell the story. There is a true "magic" about camp, and the new friendships, the happy out-of-door life together, were a rich experience for every girl. Miss Carolyn Mullin and Miss Waneta Watrous of the "Y" staff were in charge of the program, and the counselors were Miss Vivian Turner of Waterford, Miss Anne Silcock of Newburgh, and the Misses Marion Stokette and Mildred Kirschenblum of Kingston.

Beginning August 1, the camp will be open to the adult members of the Y.W.C.A., the first group to be the club of young business and industrial girls, who will spend the week-end of August 2 and 3 at the camp. Other events for next week will be a picnic of the Guild of the First Presbyterian Church, Tuesday, August 5, and the Y.W.C.A. dessert bridge party Thursday afternoon, as well as family picnics. Any members wishing to make reservations for affairs at the camp, are asked to communicate with Mrs. A. Noble Graham or call the camp, telephone Saugerties 674-15, throughout August the local "Y" office will be closed, and the camp will be the association headquarters for the month.

Guest Conductor At Williams Camp

Saturday evening, August 2, the Ernest Williams Music Camp at Pine Grove, Saugerties, will present an outstanding symphonic band concert with Eric W. G. Leiden as guest conductor. This will be the first concert featuring a guest conductor in the 1941 summer schedule. The second such concert will be conducted by Percy Grainger, famous pianist-composer, on the following Saturday evening, August 9, and will include the first appearance in this section of Cecile Jacobson's popular Fire-side Singers of New York City.

Eric Leiden, who is to conduct this Saturday's concert, is American's foremost arranger and one of its leading composers as well. For several years he has headed the Theoretical Department both at the Ernest Williams Music School in Brooklyn and at the summer session near Saugerties. Highly revered by the students, Mr. Leiden's appearance as guest conductor of the symphonic band will be one of the highlights of the whole summer for the members of the band and audience.

The public is cordially invited to attend the concert Saturday evening, featuring the music of its famous conductor, Eric Leiden. Several new concert trrios will be included on the program, as well as a delightful arrangement of the popular tunes from Walt Disney's "Snow White". The concert will begin at 8:30 p. m. at the Camp Auditorium, Pine Grove, Saugerties.

Maverick Conductor

WERNER JOSTEN

Werner Josten, composer-conductor, will conduct the Maverick String Ensemble at the Music Hall Sunday, August 3, at 4 p. m. The program will consist of Alcina Suite, Handel; Concerto Sacro 11, Josten; and Symphony No. 49, Haydn.

The Concerto Sacro was performed the first time by the Juilliard Graduate School, Albert Stoessel conducting. It was introduced in Boston by Serge Koussevitzky and has been played since by all the major orchestras in the country.

Mr. Josten, teacher of composition at Smith College, lists among his compositions choral works, orchestral works, several ballets, chamber music of all types, and songs. Symphony in F was chosen for publication, in 1938, by the Juilliard Musical Foundation. His Sonata for violin and piano was played at the festival for Contemporary Music in London in June 1938.

Surprise Birthday Party Mrs. Ola Whispell of 84 Fairview avenue was given a surprise birthday party, Tuesday evening, July 29. She received many cards, flowers, gifts and a birthday cake. Those attending were Mr. and Mrs. Ray Waterman, and son, Charles; Mrs. Anthony Mayes and children, Roy, Lee, and Gloria; Betty Ann and Kenneth Whispell, Mrs. Agnes Whispell and Mrs. Henry Curtis.

Lecture on Art

Stephan Bourgeois, noted lecturer on art, will speak about "The Modern Artist and His Public" at the Woodstock Art Gallery, Saturday, August 2, at 8:45 p. m. Tickets may be obtained at the door or in advance at the Woodstock Art Gallery. This will probably be the only lecture held at the gallery and will be one of the highlights of the season. A general discussion and question period will follow the lecture.

"My rubber," said Nat Goodwin, the famous actor, describing a Turkish bath that he once had in Mexico, "was a very strong man. He laid me on a slab and kneaded me and punched me and banged me in a most emphatic way. When it was over and I had gotten up, he came up behind me before my sheet was adjusted, and gave me three resounding slaps on the bare back with the palm of his enormous hand. 'What in blazes are you doing?'" I gasped, staggering. "No offense, sir," said the man. "It was only to let the office know that I was ready for the next bath. You see, sir, the bell is out of order in this room."

Good Taste Today

(Author of "Etiquette," "The Personality of a House," "The Book of Social Usage," etc.)

Concerning The Good Manners Of A Knife And Fork

This is certainly a lot of fuss about nothings, but in answer to innumerable letters about these "nothings" let me explain.

To avoid the bad manners, long training in table manners will probably cause you to lay down your fork, held in your left hand, with handle slightly to the right, while butting a guest of bread for example with the knife. But whether or not you would turn the fork over, prongs up or lay it prongs down, I doubt very much if you have ever thought to notice.

At the end of the course, you should correctly leave knife and fork and spoon close together: fork on the left, knife for spoon on the right, with handles pointing toward you or toward your right shoulder. The prongs of the fork or bowl of spoon turned up, the blade of the knife toward the fork. The most important rule is that the handles (especially if heavy) shall be laid well in on the rim of the plate so that they will not topple off when plate is moved.

Two Hostesses Give A Party Together

Dear Mrs. Post: A friend and I are giving a lunch party for twenty-four women in a hotel. Please tell us (1) Where shall she and I sit? (2) Shall we give instructions ahead of time as to who is to be served first? (3) What about place cards? Shall they be used, or shall we just tell the important guests where to sit and the others to sit wherever they please? (4) What provisions should be made for tipping those who wait on us?

Answer: (1) If you are to be seated at several tables, she sits at one table, you at another. (2) The places at the right of you both are for your two most important guests, who should be served first. (There will probably be four fresh dishes for 24 guests—meaning that four guests will be "served first.") (3) By all means seat your table with place cards. Otherwise, there would be great confusion. (4) Ten per cent of your total bill, and give the amount to the head waiter (or waitress) and ask him (or her) to give it to the proper ones. This is really supposed to be for those who actually serve, so if the head waiter has been especially helpful, you really ought to hand him something extra for himself.

Perfect Diamond Not

Always Most Valuable

Probably you've never suspected it, but the imperfect diamond may be far more valuable than the perfect one. If you're the average woman who wears a diamond or the man who bought it for her you've judged it by its whiteness. But that isn't the only standard. The gem whose crystal-clear sparkle so delights you perhaps would be worth a great deal more if it were blue, green or brown.

Yet color in a diamond is caused by specks. And specks really are imperfections. If they are too small they cheapen the stone. But large enough and evenly diffused they are likely to place it in a fabulous price range. The point is merely that in their way the imperfections must be perfect. This is only one strange truth you undoubtedly will learn about glamorous gems now that the diamond center of the world has fled to America from Belgium and Holland. And now that families famous for generations as diamond cutters have come to live with you. Bringing along all the secrets of the trade; the history and legends of precious stones.

One of the two most famous colored diamonds in America is the Tiffany Orange, a square-cut 125% carat stone with 101 facets. It was found in the Kimberly mines in 1878. The other, much better known, is the 44% carat blue Hope diamond owned by Mrs. Evelyn Walsh McLean of Washington. Mrs. McLean is said to have paid $300,000 for the stone, which once belonged to Louis XIV.

We Take Life Seriously

Best way to get an insight into how seriously some people take their little lives is to stand down at the foot of any depot or station and catch an earful of the grief broadcast by the party almost late to catch the train. "Well, you know my sister from Whosit called. They just learned the baby has whooping cough. And then Joe phoned from the office and said the car had a flat tire in the parking lot and he couldn't get out to the house. And then when we went to call a cab those other people were on the line. So I just about gave up, and it was too late to catch a bus, and besides, etc. . . ."

Co-Operative May Operate Tomato Plant in Country

The Farm Security Administration is now endeavoring to speed plans for the organization of a farmers' co-operative to operate the tomato cannery at Marlborough, according to Fred J. Kirchner, Jr., supervisor at the Kingston office of the farm Security Administration.

As part of the defense program the government has asked for an increase in the production of canned fruits and vegetables, particularly tomatoes. In line with this need, it seems more urgent that this cannery be operated during the 1941 season. Farmers throughout this area appear to be agreed that there is a deficit of need of a plant of this type to absorb the surplus crop. The surplus may be serious this year as plantings are greater in the area than any previous year. Mr. Kirchner further stated that the co-operative, if organized, would probably expand its services to the canning of other fruits and vegetables as soon as practical. This would aid in more efficient operation and assist a still larger group of farmers.

With good co-operation from the farmers and the assistance of the Farm Security Administration, Extension Service and other farm organizations, it should be possible to organize this co-operative within a short period of time. To assist with the organization, a meeting has been called for Friday, August 1, at 8 p. m. at the Marlborough High School, Marlborough.

Representatives of the Farm Security Administration, Ulster County Farm Bureau and the New York State Department of Farms and Markets will be present to explain the co-operative plans and to answer questions.

Mr. Kirchner stated that many hours of time could be saved if all farmers producing tomatoes and other fruits and vegetables would attend the meeting. As time is such a vital factor in the co-operative is to operate this year, it is only through group meetings that the necessary organization work can be carried out.

Persons wishing further information should contact Fred J. Kirchner, Jr., supervisor, Farm Security Administration, Municipal Building, Kingston.

Try a Glass of Ice-Cold Vitamins

By MRS. ALEXANDER GEORGE (AP Feature Service Writer)

You have a chance to slip more of the vitamin alphabet into summer fare for the youngsters by going strong on beverages that are wholesome as well as thirst-quenching.

Children are sometimes downed by heat and strenuous play, but it is amazing how quickly they can come back on a tall glass of cool, soothing chocolate shake, frothy fruit fizz, frosted peach or berry freeze.

Peppermint candy is the basis for a beverage refreshing as well as nutritious: PEPPERMINT FLIP. Mix a cup of crushed red-and-white stick peppermint candy with 6 cups milk, placed in double boiler. Add ¼ teaspoon salt and heat slowly until candy has melted. Cool and pour in 1 teaspoon vanilla. Chill until needed. Beat a pint of vanilla ice cream, orange sherbet or cup of whipped cream into the blend and pour into tall glasses.

Ice creams and sherbets not only give extra taste appeal to thirst-quenchers, but they also step up the food values. FRUIT FROST calls for my favorite grapejuice sherbet. Mix a cup each of pineapple, raspberry and orange juices. Add ½ cup lemon juice and ¼ cup sugar. Half-fill tall glasses, add dips of grapejuice sherbet and give several beats with a long handled spoon. Fill up with ginger ale and garnish with fresh mint leaves. It will take about a quart of sherbet and pint of ginger ale to make 8 servings. Lime sherbet gives a fine flavor, also berry or peach ice cream. Take your choice.

This Week's Picnic Pointer

(AP Feature Service)

When sandwiches are the mainstay of a picnic meal, the preparation is easy. And making sandwiches on the spot is fun.

Carry along thin slices of corned beef, ham, bologna and cheese—all wrapped in waxed paper and kept chilled until the last minute. Pack thin slices of tomatoes, green peppers, radishes, cucumbers and onions. Unwrap the foods on paper plates. Have a helper spread bread slices with butter, prepared mustard and mayonnaise, mixed together.

The picnic fans then make up their own combinations into tall 3 deckers. Sweet pickles, olives and crisp carrot strips can go into the sandwiches or be used as relish accompaniments.

Pertinent Facts On Conscription

Brigadier General Ames T. Brown, New York State Director of Selective Service, today announced that the physical examination and induction of men who were 28 years of age or over on July 1, 1941, except those who volunteer for induction, has been postponed until further notice from Washington.

"This means an indefinite extension of the 30-day postponement granted on July 1," General Brown stated. "Should Congress enact legislation deferring men 28 years of age and older the provision will, of course, become definite."

"However, such men should be warned that the present postponement and possible legislation do not contemplate their removal from the jurisdiction of the boards with which they are registered. They have a deferred status but not removal from Selective Service control and they must keep their boards informed at all times of their status and address."

General Brown emphasized the fact that registrants over 28 years of age may volunteer for induction.

Regulations covering the 28-year old man also included instructions to postpone the induction of men, who were or will be discharged from the Regular Army or the Coast Guard for the convenience of the government within six months prior to the completion of their regular three-year period of enlistment, inasmuch as the age deferment legislation, in its present form, includes a provision which would relieve such men from training and service.

One Bicycle for Every Four Autos in Country

Few motorists realize that bicycle use has taken a surprising spurt during the past four years. More than 8,000,000 bicycles now are in use throughout the country, the ratio being one for every four motor vehicles. Production averaged over 1,000,000 bicycles a year from 1936 to 1938, and in 1939 about 1,250,000 new bicycles were sold. One estimate is that 85 per cent of the riders are under 16 years of age.

In our grandfather's time people of all ages rode bicycles, took pride in their riding skill and were responsible, thoughtful travelers. Then the automobile supplanted the bicycle and "wheelmanship" as it was known in the early days, was lost. Today we have a mushroom growth of bicycle riders, many of whom are "wobblecyclists," or, in other words, youngsters, and even elders, who seek thrills in poor cycling, whose bikes are poorly adjusted, have faulty brakes, wobbly seats and handlebars, loose handle grips, and are not equipped with proper lights.

During each of the past two years there has been a traffic accident toll of some 700 deaths and 35,000 injuries to bicyclists, about half of whom are children from 5 to 14 years of age.

Gold Hunters Will Seek Fortune in Old Dives

VICTORIA, B. C.—There may be gold in them thar cracks, mister. So a group of placer miners, thinking they can do something about it, have written the minister of mines for copies of old maps showing locations of places of entertainment of the glamorous sixties. They think that in the flooring of any of the old dance halls still standing, in the gravel and even on the ground they may find gold dust.

July Milk Price Should Be $2.28 Bulletin Predicts

A uniform price ranging upward from $2.28 a hundredweight is estimated in the July issue of the Market Administrator's Bulletin, scheduled for publication this week, as the rate of payment that dairy farmers of the New York milkshed will receive for milk delivered in July.

N. J. Cladakis, administrator of the New York metropolitan milk marketing area, announced today that the forecast is a minimum of 60 cents a hundred pounds higher than the rate dairymen were paid for milk delivered in July 1940. The price a year ago was $1.68. Mr. Cladakis also pointed out that the forecast exceeds by 13 cents a preliminary estimate, prepared and published a month ago, that the July price would be $2.15.

"Our estimate," Mr. Cladakis commented, "indicates that dairy farmers will share nearly $12,500,000 at the forecast price of $2.28 in comparison with a pool return of $8,928,280.55 at the uniform rate of $1.68 a year ago."

"The current forecast is based upon the expectation that July deliveries will run about 20,000,000 pounds less than last July's total of 568,243,915. The drop is the estimated quantity of milk that was withheld in the first 10 days of July during the strike of the Dairy Farmers' Union. Deliveries otherwise probably would have been at last year's level.

"It is apparent also from reports now available that the withholding of milk had virtually no effect on fluid consumption. Most of the milk withheld from the market came from Class III (mainly evaporated milk) and possibly Class IV-B (American cheddar cheese)."

At one time recently 6,500 tons of pepper was stored in India.

New York, July 31 (AP)—Bids for rails and specialties helped steady the stock market today although many leaders struggled unsuccessfully to get in the rally.

The direction was a bit cloudy at the start and near the final hour. Fractional irregularity was the rule. Dealings were fast at intervals and transfers for the full proceedings were at the rate of approximately 900,000 shares.

The generally bright earnings picture and the fact that the market was not expected to be too much affected by the degree of mounting tax prospects and many who leaned toward the bullish side inclined to hold aloof pending congressional action on the President's inflation control recommendations. Neither the Far Eastern nor Russian war news provided much speculative inspiration.

Japanese bonds again backed away. Cotton futures rebounded after Wednesday's slump and coffee pushed up briskly on the boost in export quotations by Brazil.

Stocks edging into new high ground for the year included Southern Railway, Southern Pacific, Northern Pacific, Paramount Pictures, Consolidated Aircraft, American Cable and Wheeling Steel.

Most steels, motors, rubbers, copper, oils and utilities followed an uneven groove.

Quotations by Morgan Davis & Co., members of the New York Stock Exchange, 60 Beaver street, New York city, branch office 48 Main street, R. B. Osterhout, manager.

Signal Corps Has Need of Specially Trained Operators

Although the Signal Corps has developed electrical sentries that will warn of invading aircraft long before they are actually sighted, the War Department announced today that additional men, specially trained, are needed to operate the devices.

A commission, as second lieutenant in the Signal Corps, is being offered to properly qualified applicants. The army needs 500 men from the fields of radio engineering and electronics to learn to operate the new, secret devices.

Electronic physicists are particularly needed. They will be used chiefly as research specialists.

The requirements of applicants are as follows: They must be unmarried, and not under twenty-one or more than thirty-six years of age, with no dependents. They must possess a college degree, or its practical equivalent in electrical engineering or physics, including courses in radio or electronics.

In addition to being able to meet the physical standards prescribed for appointment as reserve officers, applicants must agree to accept active duty outside the continental United States and to make airplane flights.

Approximately 1,500 applicants have already been interviewed but it was found that most of them were lacking in the necessary training in electronic physics.

It was pointed out that the type of complex apparatus which the new officers will be trained, and which they will use later in aircraft warning units, requires highly specialized education and practical experience.

Persons interested in this type of work may submit informal applications by letter direct to the Chief Signal Officer, Washington, D. C. The applicant should give his name, address, age, military status or experience and an outline of technical qualification and professional experience.

Forfeits Bail

Walter Joseph of Ulster Park was arrested by Officer Minasian on North Front street Wednesday afternoon, charged with parking in a restricted area. Bail was forfeited when he failed to appear in city court this morning.

Signs Missing

Officer Krum reported to police headquarters this morning that two parking signs were missing in the uptown section. One was from in front of Morgan's on Fair street and the other from the east side of Crown, near North Front street.

Nazis Smash 3 Soviet Divisions sage to the President promising that Russia will play its part in crushing Hitler.

Hopkins, in return, told Stalin that the U. S. will help Russia against Hitler and expressed Roosevelt's "great satisfaction with the fight the Soviets are putting up in their country."

The Russians said a German air raid attempt on Moscow shortly after Hopkins saw Stalin at the Kremlin was thwarted and the raiders forced to turn back with the loss of one plane.

The Soviet information bureau communique said fighting was especially hard at Smolensk and Zhitomir while major actions continued in the directions of Novorzhnev and Nevel. The Soviet air force was reported to have bombed the Rumanian cities of Ploesti and Sulina.

Disclosure that a British aircraft carrier was operating off Norway's northern coast caused widespread interest. These craft normally are well guarded by other naval units and it was presumed that a considerable British squadron might be somewhere in Arctic waters.

A German radio bulletin credited Nazi naval guns with shooting down two of the British planes and expressed belief that Nazi warships might have been involved.

The R.A.F. despite unfavorable weather conditions, last night raided western Germany again for the first time since Friday, little damage was done. German raids over England were reported negligible.

Japan Apologizes For Ship Bombing

Passy at Chungking which was barely missed, were across the Yangtze river from the capital city proper.

The prompt action of the Japanese government in apologizing and expressing regrets was regarded as an indication, however, that it was anxious to avoid any further tension in the already badly strained relations with this country.

Meanwhile the Japanese, while manifesting some apprehension, apparently were ready to risk their merchantment in American ports for the present.

Although the state department still refused specific assurances on the ships, developments indicated that Japan had decided to permit at least some of her United States-bound vessels to make port.

More than 40 of them have been lying off the coast for days, because of owners' fears that they might be immobilized in American waters under last week's order freezing all Japanese assets.

Lyons Gives Report On Prison Break

Absolves Lawes of Blame for April 14 Affair Which Took 4 Lives

Albany, N. Y., July 31 (AP)—State Correction Commissioner John A. Lyons said today his investigation of a Sing Sing prison escape which cost four lives April 14 reveals "no maladministration" under Warden Lewis E. Lawes.

Weaknesses, however, in the physical aspects of the prison and the system of admitting visitors were found, he added, and steps have been taken to correct them.

The new regulations, the commissioner said, include:

Finger-printing of all visitors including members of prisoners' families who previously were exempt.

Barring common law wives of prisoners from the visiting quarters except on permission of the correction commissioner.

Asked to what degree if any, laxity by prison officials had contributed to the break, Lyons said investigation "has shown no maladministration." All of the "greater security" measures, he added, have been ordered since the escape. Asserting some criticism had been directed against a tower guard who failed to detect the escape Lyons said, he could readily understand how this could happen on that foggy night.

Of a failure to sound the prison whistle in time to prevent the break, he said this is never done until an absence from the prison is established.

Other security measures taken include construction of a pit to allow inspection of the under parts of automobiles entering the prison, additional fencing, establishment of an all night patrol outside the hospital, and additional patrol posts around the building.

Three revolvers were smuggled into the prison preceding the break under the chassis of a milk delivery truck, Lyons said in explanation of the automobile inspection.

Lawes, one of the nation's best known penologists, resigned as warden three months after the break which cost the lives of a Sing Sing guard, an Ossining city policeman and two of four escaping prisoners.

The other convicts, Joseph "Whitey" Rixford, 25, and Charles McGale, 45, were captured after seven drama-packed hours and later convicted of first degree murder.

Robert J. Kirby, principal keeper at Attica prison, was named by Lyons to succeed Lawes as Sing Sing's warden.

Trade Is Suspended

Washington, July 31 (AP)—The commerce department announced today that Japan has suspended merchandise trade with the Republic of Panama since the United States has stopped Japanese ships from going through the Panama Canal "because of repairs." A department press release said, "representatives of Japanese exporters in Panama, following prohibition of Japanese ships from canal's use, have received cable orders to suspend sales of merchandise in the republic."

President Names Board to Oversee Federal Agencies

Vice President Wallace Is Selected as Head and Other Cabinet Members Listed

Washington, July 31 (AP)—A board to guide the overall activities of federal agencies in economic defense was created by President Roosevelt today. Vice President Wallace was made its head.

Also named as members were the secretaries of state, treasury, war, navy, agriculture and commerce, and the attorney general.

An executive order establishing the board said:

"The administration of the various activities relating to economic defense shall remain with the several departments and agencies now charged with such duties, but such administration shall conform to the policies formulated or approved by the board."

Functions assigned the board were listed as follows:

"Advise the President as to economic defense measures to be taken or functions to be performed which are essential to the effective defense of the nation."

"Coordinate the policies and actions of the several departments and agencies carrying on activities relating to economic defense in order to assure unity and balance in the application of such measures."

"Develop integrated economic defense plans and programs for coordinated action by the departments and agencies concerned and use all appropriate means to assure that such plans and programs are carried into effect by such departments and agencies."

"Make investigations and advise the President on the relationship of economic defense measures to post war economic reconstruction and on the steps to be taken to protect the trade position of the United States and to expedite the establishment of sound, peace time international economic relationships."

"Review proposed or existing legislation relating to or affecting economic defense and, with the approval of the President, recommend such additional legislation as may be necessary or desirable."

Wallace was put in a distinct category in contrast with the other board members, in that each member would be allowed to have an alternate but the chairman would not. His was interpreted as meaning the Vice President would be continually active in his duties when he was not presiding over the senate.

The order defined "economic defense" as meaning "the conduct, in the interest of national defense, of international economic activities including those relating to exports, imports, the acquisition and disposition of materials and commodities from foreign countries including preclusive buying, transactions in foreign exchange, and foreign owned or foreign controlled property, international investments and extensions of credit, shipping and transportation of goods among countries, the international aspects of patents, international communications pertaining to commerce, and other foreign economic matters."

Harmon and Evashevski to Lead Team of All Stars on August 28; Fans Select Players

Chicago, July 31 (AP)—Tommy Harmon and Forest Evashevski, Michigan's famed runner and blocker, will romp together once more—but there may be an entirely different story to tell this time.

The Wolverine twosome, scourge of midwestern gridirons for three years, will team up this time with other celebrated college seniors of 1940 to engage the powerful Chicago Bears August 28 in the annual all-star game in Soldier Field.

More than 9,000,000 votes were cast by the nation's fans in selecting the all-star personnel and 1,421,586 of the ballots named Harmon at halfback. Second in the individual totals was Evashevski, the demon blocker, with 1,357,674.

Several Injured As Bus and Truck Are in Collision

A Hudson Transit bus, operated by Eugene Eignor, 32, of Cossackie and a Town of Marlborough dump truck, operated by Peter Salatin, 24, of Milton were in collision Wednesday afternoon at the junction of route 9-W and the Mahoney Road about a mile north of Young's garage at Milton.

The drivers of both vehicles were injured as was one passenger in the bus and two of the occupants of the truck. None required hospitalization and were treated by Dr. William Capkowski of Milton.

State Trooper William Martin, who investigated the accident, said the bus with 12 passengers was proceeding north on route 9-W and the truck was proceeding west to east over the Mahoney Road in intersection.

Eignor suffered an injury to his foot and Grey Jeffries of Merrick, L. I., a passenger, who was seated behind the driver, was cut on the neck by flying glass.

Peter Salatin, driver of the truck, had a bad cut over the right eye and his brother, Paul 19, was cut on the right forehead. Edward Martin, 17, of Milton, the third person on the truck escaped injury. No arrest was made by the Trooper following the crash.

Elting Resolution Passed by Bank

Kingston Trust Directors Acknowledge Services

Directors of the Kingston Trust Co., at a recent meeting, recorded their feelings of deep sorrow at the death and expressed appreciation of the "long, honorable and efficient service" of the late Philip Elting as president of the Trust Company since January, 1925.

Mr. Elting's death is declared to be a bereavement to the community, the county, state and nation, removing as it did a man of character who "never sought to evade any public or private duty."

Tribute was paid to his firmness and steadiness of purpose, although he was mild and unassuming in manner. Pride is expressed in the record of a "life well spent for the benefit of others" and it is noted that "his sterling integrity gave additional dignity to every office which he held, while his preeminent talents and unrivaled knowledge of human character won for him the admiration of all in the manifold duties which he performed, both in private and public life."

The members of the board of directors "bear eloquent testimony to his uniform kindness and courtesy to his associates" and to "his fidelity and loyalty to this institution and its many patrons."

that he left the employ of Kanina and went to work for a neighbor. Then because Kanina revealed the fact that Polifka was a parolee, Polifka said he had burned the Kanina barn one night after releasing the live stock. He said he was released when no proof was found of his act.

Wednesday Polifka found himself in city court here on a disorderly conduct charge and was given a suspended sentence. Later he returned to the court house and gave himself up to Deputy Sheriff Wesley O'Brien.

Sheriff Molyneux said he would hold Polifka on the parole officer's warrant until an officer arrived here. What action will be taken on the Orange county warrant depends on the attitude of the parole officer.

A. F. L. Electrical Workers to Return To Brooklyn Yard

(By The Associated Press)

Striking A.F.L. electrical workers today exempted a $70,000,000 expansion program at the Brooklyn navy yard from their walkout and announced they would go back to work immediately as the Office of Production Management in Washington asked them to do.

The city wide strike would continue on other construction projects, union officials said.

The O.P.M. had promised an immediate investigation of the union dispute with Consolidated Edison Company which precipitated the work stoppage. It halted construction of a 16 story warehouse at the navy yard, affected work on two super-drydocks and threatened to slow down building of the $100,000,000 battleships Iowa and Missouri.

Cardinals Increase Margin Over Flock With Win, 6-4; Ernie White Hurls Victory

Bought by Dodgers

Redbirds Sew Up Game in 8th With Rally of Three; Bucs Lose by 3 to 2

By The Associated Press
The St. Louis Cardinals have the class that distinguishes a champion and barring a miracle—or a catastrophe—they are likely to proceed to the National League pennant.

They have plenty of pitching, fine fielding and marvelous power—eight hitters batting over .300 and one who was .299 in the last official averages. But most of all they have the stamina and courage that is required to come from behind and win the close games—the battles that count.

Increases Lead

This was the way they beat Brooklyn yesterday, 6-4, to take a three-game lead over the Dodgers in their torrid pennant tussle. The Dodger's scored a run in the first and then were held to one scratch hit for the next five frames while the Redbirds pulled into a 3-1 lead.

The Dodgers got a run back in the seventh through an error and in the eighth Pete Reiser hit a home run with one on to put Brooklyn in front 4-3.

This only caused the Cardinals to strive harder and they immediately ripped off three runs in their half of the eighth to sew up the game. Martin Marion doubled off the rightfield wall. Don Padgett walked and Estel Crabtree singled for one run. Frank Crespi, who had four straight hits, sacrificed and Terry Moore singled for two more tallies.

Discounting Tuesday's tie, in which the Cards counted six runs in one inning to overcome a 6-1 Brooklyn lead, this was the fourth straight victory for St. Louis over the Dodgers.

It was credited to Lefty Ernie White, who held them to six hits before being removed for a pinch-hitter in the eighth, and was his fifth triumph in nine days as well as his 12th of the season against three defeats.

The Pittsburgh Pirates yielded third place to Cincinnati again by dropping a 3-2 ten-inning verdict to the Boston Braves while the Reds were pelting the New York Giants 9-0. Bucky Walters acquired his 13th triumph in the latter affair, although giving 11 hits. The Reds themselves made 16 off three New York pitchers Ernie Lombardi singled with the bases loaded once and drove in a run with another single later.

The game at Pittsburgh was a dazzler. Jim Tobin, former Pirate, allowed only one hit till the fifth and six altogether. He himself hit a double in the fifth to drive in Boston's only run in the first nine innings. In the tenth Buddy Hassett's fly was misjudged for a triple and two singles brought Boston two runs, enough to withstand a one-run Pirate counter-attack.

The Phillies and Chicago Cubs split a doubleheader. A six-run fifth inning gave the Phils the first session 8-4 Chicago captured the nightcap 5-3 and Tot Presnell pitching three-hit ball in six innings of relief.

Feller Fails Again

Action in the American League was confined to two night games. Washington beat the Cleveland Indians 7-6 and Bob Feller failed for the third straight time to snare victory No. 20. He was not charged with the loss because he was removed for a pinchhitter during a two-run tribal rally in the ninth. But with Joe Heving and Harry Eisenstat on the mound, Washington came back with two runs of its own on doubles by Doc Cramer and Cecil Travis. Feller gave nine hits in eight innings, fanned four and walked three.

The Philadelphia Athletics squeezed out a 5-3 ten-inning victory over the Chicago White Sox with Sam Chapman accounting for all the A's runs on two homers. He hit one in the sixth with two on and broke up the game in the 11th with another, his 19th of the year, with one on. Luman Harris and Bump Hadley allowed the Sox only six hits. This put the two teams back in a virtual tie for fourth place.

Abrams Is Winner In Thrilling Bout At New York City

Slim Attendance Out for Non-Title Match at Madison Square; Belleose Loses

New York, July 31 (AP)—Little Georgie Abrams finally has punched his way out of the second fiddle job in the middleweight jazz band, but the chances were slim today that he'd be invited to play the championship tune.

The husky Washington wallopers took a furlough from his naval reserve station last night and all but punched the ears off Billy Soose in a rousing ten-round clouting party. Billy's world middleweight championship—as recognized in New York and California—was not on the line.

Only a slim crowd rattled around in Madison Square Garden's first fistic get-together of the summer, but the 6,223 on hand were rooting for Georgie, because they knew he was fighting for a shot at the 160-pound crown. This had been denied him before because he had the misfortune to belong to the same slug stable as Ken Overlin. Soose won the crown from Overlin in May and agreed to defend it against either Ken or Abrams. Abrams had belted Billy into defeat twice before last night's success, and number three, everyone figured he deserved the chance. But promoter Mike Jacobs, indicated he would select Overlin for some reason which wasn't quite clear to the fistic "experts." The bout would be put on in the Garden in November.

Meantime, Soose, a well-wallop warrior, announced his next trip to the post would be against the ex-champ, Cefarino Garcia, in Los Angeles, September 8.

Ruffin Starts Fast

Bobby Ruffin, clever Long Island City lightweight, defeated Mike Belleose, Bronx battler who once held the featherweight championship of the world, in a spirited eight-round semi-final.

The weights were 134 for Ruffin and 130 for Belleose.

Bill Gallon Is Favorite In Hambletonian at Goshen

Veterans Consider Horse Freshman; Owner Says It Is Fastest Entry in Annual Race

By JOHN A. GILES
Charlotte, N. C., July 31 (AP)—R. Horace Johnston, whose trotting horse, Bill Gallon, will be a favorite in the Hambletonian at Goshen, N. Y., Wednesday, is considered a freshman by veterans of the rig business.

Just three years ago to the day of the Hambletonian, which is to trotting as the Kentucky Derby is to thoroughbred racing, Johnston went to Hanover Farm sales in Harrisburg, Pa., to buy a colt. Most trotting horse racers spend years before they land a contender in the Goshen race.

Johnston, millionaire manufacturer, had been a horseman for 45 years but this was his first fling at trotting. He paid $1,800 for Bill Gallon, which sold under the name of Ashley Hanover and was by Sandy Flash out of Calumet Aristocrat.

There wasn't much spirited bidding for Bill Gallon, Johnston recalled today, and several of the others (their names were soon forgotten) sold for $6,000 or more. "I just liked his looks," Johnston said. "Of course, I had years of experience with horses behind me but this was my first time with trotters."

'Nothing But Luck'

"It was nothing in the world but luck—just luck."

But Johnston's eye for horseflesh was something else besides luck. He recalled that "I could see he had no lost motion, how he sprang from the hocks and ran straight."

A year later Johnston knew he had one in a thousand. As a two-year-old the even-tempered trotter was a champion and a leading money winner.

And this freshman of the rig business admits that if Bill Gallon wins he probably won't win another Hambletonian—but he won't say he'll quit trying.

"I've got the fastest horse in the race," he said, "and with a minimum of luck and the right track conditions Bill Gallon will come in first. We've licked the other entries in previous races and I don't see anything to stop us."

"The time? It should be 2:02."

Bill Gallon, trained and driven by Lee Smith (a freshman in the Hambletonian, too, and with little experience as a driver in the grand circuit) had a 1940 time of 2:04. He stands a little more than 15 hands and because of his true speed of gait, keeps his speed and seldom makes mistakes.

Welch, Ex-Giant Dies at Age of 82; Won 245 Contests

Startled Sports World in 1885 by Winning 17 in a Row; Pitched With Veteran Tim Keefe

New York, July 31 (P)—Michael Welch, who died at Nashua, N. H., last night at the age of 82, was one of the most active pitchers ever to wear the uniform of the New York National League club.

He was chosen for mound duty so frequently in his early days with the club that from the start of the 1884 season until the day he retired he had a clause in his contract restraining the management from starting him in the box more than every other day.

He started with the Poughkeepsie club in 1877 at a salary of $45 a month, and the next season he was with Auburn. The next two years he pitched for the Holyoke team. He then joined the Troy Haymakers and served with that club until 1883, when it was purchased by John B. Day and became the first New York Giant team.

From 1883 through 1892 Welch won 245 games, and in 1885 he pitched 47 contests for the New York club. Back in the eighties the playing season consisted of 84 games and during the campaigns of 1883, 1884 and 1885 Welch was "redited with more than half the Giants' victories. He paired with Tim Keefe on the mound to bring New York its first national league pennant in 1888.

In 1885 he won 17 straight contests, and on another occasion he fanned the first nine men to face him in a game against Cleveland.
